GRANT BOULEVARD DEAL IS HELD UP

The Concessions.

BREAKS QUORUM WHEN HE CANNOT PASS MEASURE

Bigelow Unable to Force the Ordinance Through the Lower Branch of Councils.

Boulevard Deal Lacks Three Votes

Director Bigelow lacked only three votes of the required number to suspend the rules to pass the ordinance for the Grant boulevard deal. The members of common council, Citizens and Republicans, were divided on the deal as follows:

FOR DEAL, 31—Barton, Rep.; Bockstoce, Citizen; Bole, Citizen; Bohill, Citizen; Cronmiller, Rep.; Dengler, Citizen; Frankel, Citizen; Gibbon, Rep.; Gulland, Citizen; Hammer, Citizen; Helnacle, Citizen; Hugues, Citizen; Kalachthaler, Citizen; Kohne, Rep.; Lauth, Citizen; Lewis, Rep.; Masiowski, Citizen; Mathews, Citizen; McKelvey, Citizen; McNally, Citizen; O'Brien, Citizen; Pfannkuch, Citizen; Porter, Citizen; Rapp, Citizen; Roenigk, Citizen; Semmelroch, Rep.; Shenkal, Citizen; Taylor, Citizen; Wallace, Citizen; Walls, Citizen; Zeuger, Citizen.

AGAINST DEAL, 12 2-7—Bailey, Rep.; Barr, Rep.; Bergmann, Rep.; Brand, Rep.; Bright, Citizen; Collins, Citizen; Finerty, Citizen; Girdwood, Rep.; Johns, Rep.; Martin, Rep.; Milby, Rep.; Morin, Rep.; McKnight, Rep.; Gray, Rep., 1-7; Dietrich, Rep., 1-7.

Votes cast for deal: Citizens, 25; Republicans 6. Against deal: Citizens 3, Republicans, 10 2-7.

Director Bigelow failed by the lack of three votes last night to railroad the ordinance for the Grant boulevard deal through common council, but he mustered enough votes to break up the meeting and prevent final action on the resolution, introduced by William Brand, to appoint a special committee to investigate the charges of corruption in connection with the passage in councils of the original ordinance for the Grant boulevard franchise two years ago.

The fight over the boulevard deal was exciting and was managed by Director Bigelow in person, who made his headquarters in the mayor's office and gave his orders direct to his lieutenants, who carried them to members on the floor of common council.

The boulevard ordinance was received from select council, where it passed on Monday. Daniel J. Bole, Citizens member from Bigelow's own ward, made the motion to suspend the rules to place the bill on second and third reading and final passage.

Could Not Get the Votes.

This required 34 votes, or three-fourths of those present. Bole's motion received 31 votes, those of 25 Citizens and six Republicans. These six Republicans were secured by various means, in most cases by promises of administration support in their campaign for re-election.

Bole's effort in behalf of the boulevard deal failing, A. G. Roenigk, a Bigelow member from the Twentieth ward, undertook to aid the game by moving to suspend the rules to advance the bill to second reading.

This also failed to produce the necessary three-fourths vote, 30 ayes being cast against 13 2-7 noes. The ordinance lies over until the regular meeting on next Monday, when Director Bigelow says he will have enough additional votes to force the deal through in spite of protests from honest councilmen and the public. The voting on the suspension of the rules permitted no debate on the boulevard ordinance. The test vote on Bole's motion to suspend the rules to pass the bill finally, was as follows:

How the Vote Stood.

Ayes—Barton, Bockstoce, Bole, Bonini, Cronmiller, Dengler, Frankel, Gibbon, Gulland, Hammer, Helnicle, Hughes, Kalchthaler, Kohne, Lauth, Lewis, Masiowski, Mathews, McKelvey, McNally, O'Brien, Pfannkuch, Porter, Rapp, Roenigk, Semmelroch, Shenkal, Taylor, Wallace, Walls, Zeuger.

SECRET SERVICE OFFICERS ARE REQUESTED

Washington County Authorities Also Want the State Constabulary Called Out.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
JOHN P. COWAN, Staff Correspondent.

MONONGAHELA, Jan. 25.—The United States secret service officers and the Pennsylvania state constabulary have been asked to aid in the suppression of the Anarchists in the Monongahela valley. Tomorrow Chief of Police Leo Logan will begin the serving of warrants on foreigners who are charged with treasonable conduct. Secret service officers are expected to be on hand, and the investigation of the case will then be thoroughly begun.

Loss of sleep and fatigue incident to his labors during the last 24 hours caused Chief Logan tonight to abandon his idea of arresting the colony of Anarchists in the valley, and he appealed to Capt. Groome of the state constabulary. At the same time he made arrangements to house the prisoners in the Washington county jail. As the case stands at this time, the postoffice authorities have the advantage in the prosecution in charging the men with misuse of the mails. Before pressing the other charges named in the information, Chief Logan asked that the postoffice charges be heard first.

Chief Logan Indefatigable.

The fact that Uncle Sam's men will be called to take part in the investigation has not caused the doughty chief in Monongahela to retire from his work. Tonight he was roused from his bed by The Gazette correspondent and declared that the work had only begun.

"The anarchists have a thorough organization in the valley," declared Chief Logan. "It is our intention to break up the band, and we will not stop until we have every man corralled or driven from this vicinity. I don't know how far the 'Black Hand' has been organized here, but I have found anarchists, and I shall not hesitate to exterminate every branch which they may have here."

Letters from Paterson Reds.

L. Lazzari, a steamship agent of Monongahela, has been called upon by the local authorities to translate the letters found last night at the home of Levi Constantina, an Italian who was arrested near Rocky Hole mine, and who is reputed to be the secretary of the local band of reds. Two of the missives found here came from Paterson, N. J., anarchists, and are declared by Mr. Lazzari to violate the United States postal laws. Constantina was arrested at 2 o'clock this morning by Chief Logan and a posse composed of Special Officer Charles Thomas and a few newspaper men.

Lorena Constantina, a daughter, will prove a valuable witness against the gang. She is said to have told the officers today that meetings had been held in her father's house and that it was there that the assossination plot had been planned. She gave the names of accomplices, for whom warrants have been issued.

Constantina and Larrachi admitted that they were members of the band. They made a partial confession of their part in the conspiracy, it is said, but denied they were responsible for the death of the wealthy Italian, Michael Carrazola, at Dunlevy.

It was given out tonight at the Washington county district attorney's office that conclusive evidence is in hand that branches of the society are located in nearly every town in the Monongahela valley. Officers in every border town of Washington county are watching for Italians who may endeavor to escape.

OHIO LEGISLATURE ACTS ON RATE OF MILEAGE

Law Passed by State Senate Provides 2-Cent-a-Mile Fare on Railroads.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 25.—The senate disposed of the 2-cent railway fare proposition this afternoon in double quick time, the Rathbun bill being passed with 27 senators, all those present, voting aye, without a word of debate. There was not even a railroad lobbyist in sight, an innovation in the usual program.

The bill was set for a third reading tomorrow, but after Senator Gayman (Dem.), asked for a leave of absence, the Democrats became alarmed and had it acted upon immediately. To the surprise of the Democratic leaders, all of the republicans voted with them.

The Rathbun bill provides that a company operating a railroad in whole or in part in this state may demand and receive for the transportation of passengers on its road, not exceeding 2 cents a mile for a distance of more than eight miles, but the fare shall be made that multiple of five nearest reached by multiplying the rate by the distance.

Railroad men declare they will retaliate by cutting out all excursions. They declare that excursion rates have always been much less than 2 cents a mile and that travelers, even on rare occasions, seldom need to pay the 3-cent fare on account of the opportunities offered.

This carries the question of 2-cent fare to the house and a hearing will be conducted before the house committee on railroads Wednesday night. The railroad lobby, which was put to flight by the senate, is expected to attend the hearing in full force.

Funeral Expenses for Mitchell.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Senator Fulton presented a resolution in the senate today authorizing the payment of funeral expenses amounting to $547 of the late Senator Mitchell. The resolution was referred to the committee on contingent expenses.

STATE OFFICER'S FEES AMOUNT TO $37,000 A YEAR

System of Compensation in Insurance Department to Be Investigated.

LEGISLATURE ACTS

PAYS NOTHING TO MARTIN

WALTER J. CHRISTY, Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 25.—By a resolution adopted today in the senate a committee of five is to be appointed to investigate the amount of fees collected by the actuary of the insurance department and what becomes of them. The inquiry will show these fees for this year will amount to $37,000. The inquiry was occasioned by a recent interview with Consulting Actuary Robert E. Forster. He is to be summoned by the committee to give the information which a Philadelphia newspaper says he is ready to make public. Tonight Mr. Forster came to Harrisburg from his home in Philadelphia.

"I am ready to tell the senate investigating committee," said Mr. Forster, "everything it wants to know about the fees and what became of them. In 1904 I collected about $33,000. The collections for 1905 amount to $35,000 and for this year I estimate them at $37,000.

"In the early 70s there was an act empowering the insurance commissioner to employ an actuary, who was to charge a fee not exceeding 3 cents per thousand for each policy valued. About 1885 my father, J. Montgomery Forster, who was then insurance commissioner, fixed the fee at 2 cents, where it has since remained.

A Thrust at Durham.

"These fees belong to the actuary. I am not saying whether I have kept them, but with Israel W. Durham, as insurance commissioner, do you suppose I was allowed to retain all of them? I will say that last year my compensation for outside business exceeded by $2,000 what I receive for my work for the state.

"Nearly all of my business with the insurance department has been conducted with J. Clayton Erb, private secretary to Mr. Durham. I know of no official position in the insurance department held by Capt. Erb. He has repeatedly, in my presence, signed the name of 'Israel W. Durham, Insurance Commissioner,' to official documents of the department. Erb wanted me to increase the rate to 3 cents, even though the insurance companies were complaining of the 2-cent charge. At a 3-cent rate the actuary would reach $51,000 a year."

Repeated attempts were made to have Mr. Forster say what percentage of the fees he retained. When asked if Mr. Durham was generous, Forster replied:

"Durham tried to drive a very hard bargain with me. What he suggested would not by $2,000 have covered the expenses of my office, to say nothing of compensation for the work of the actuary. I have four clerks in my office in Philadelphia and their salaries and office rent amount to $4,500 a year.

Did Not Divide With Martin.

"The actuary fees are collected between January 1 and April 1. Commissioner David Martin did not assume his duties until the first of July of last year. I can say positively that he has gotten no part of the fees collected by the actuary.

"The charge of two cents is extremely excessive. I believe an act fixing the fee on Pennsylvania policies at one-half cent and on foreign policies at one cent a thousand would be equitable. This would bring the actuary about $5,000 a year. I have an understanding with insurance companies that if such legislation be enacted the difference between the two cent rate and the proposed rates will be returned to them."

Mr. Forster indicated very plainly that if there is no change in the legislation at this time the $37,000 collected in 1906 will be retained by the actuary for his

CASTRO SAYS TAIGNEY TREATED HIS OFFICERS CONTEMPTUOUSLY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CARACAS, VENEZUELA (Via Port of Spain, Trinidad, Jan. 25.)—In reply to a request sent him today by the Associated Press correspondent for a statement of Venezuela's attitude concerning the Franco-Venezuelan situation President Castro immediately telegraphed as follows from Maracay:

"You can transmit to the Associated Press the following:

"M. Taigney, the French charge d'affaires at Caracas, not only violated diplomatic etiquette, as is proved by the fact of his presenting a protest against the Venezuelan government when the French Cable Company was calmed and had been almost arranged with, but the protest has brought the disagreeable situation between France and Venezuela to the point of a rupture of friendly relations. But not content with this he, having been deprived by his government of the diplomatic character with which he was invested in Venezuela, violated as a French citizen the laws of the port of La Guaira by embarking on a French liner, whereupon the Venezuelan government, in order to avoid new difficulties and after its police had been treated contemptuously, resolved not to permit Taigney to reland.

"CIPRIANO CASTRO."

PORT OF SPAIN, Jan. 25.—It is now believed that the French cruisers De Saix and Jurien de la Graviere, which have sailed from this port for an unknown destination, are bound for Fort de France, Island of Martinique, and not for La Guaira, Venezuela, as at first supposed. One French cruiser remains at this port.

SWEARS BROTHER KILLED HIS FATHER

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MARIETTA, O., Jan. 25.—Spectators at the trial of "Eddie" Uhl, who is charged with causing his father's death, were startled today when Cora Uhl, the pretty sister of the defendant, took the witness stand and testified that her mother, who died recently, had told her that her brother "Eddie" had killed his father.

Miss Uhl is deaf and dumb and her testimony was interpreted by an interpreter from Columbus. While Miss Uhl was giving the damaging evidence against her brother the jury was absent from the court room, having been ordered to leave so that the girl could give the answer which caused a sensation.

Miss Lizzie Kinnard, an aunt of the defendant, testified that "Eddie" Uhl passed her room on his way to the room where the elder Uhl was found dead. She also alleged she heard the gunshot. Oscar Uhl, a brother of the accused, stated his brother secured some shells in a saloon.

"Officers of the American squadron have landed in Mufti and organized several shooting parties in the neighborhood of Tangier. The customs authorities raised objections to allowing them to land with guns, but the matter was quickly arranged.

"It seems that the Moors are convinced that the mission of the squadron is to capture Raisuli, to avenge the kidnaping of Mr. Perdicaris, consequently Raisuli remains in his camp and sends out many men to watch developments."

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 25.—A special train of Pullman cars, 16 in number, with medical cars, have been sent to the Baltic provinces to bring back the wounded troops. It seems that the show of resistance was greater than generally known.

At a place in Livonia named Fiellin 45 villagers were shot at a drumhead court-martial.

It is stated that a short time loan for 10 months of $50,000,000 in gold has been concluded in Berlin in order to try to nullify the constant drains of gold from here. Imperial fours are down to 80.

STATEHOOD BILL PASSES HOUSE BY INCREASE IN VOTE

Measure Goes Through on a Ballot of 194 to 150.

INSURGENTS RETURN

Many Men Who Deserted Party Returned to the Administration Camp.

FIGHT TO GO TO THE SENATE

SPECIAL TELEGRAM FROM
L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—There was a further scattering of the insurgent forces in the house today when the statehood bill came to a vote. Some of the Republicans who yesterday screwed their courage up to the point of registering a weak-voiced "No" on the question of the rule, today took to the tall grass and failed to vote at all, or else went over bodily to the administration camp. The bill was passed by a vote of 194 to 150, a majority of 44, as against a majority of 27 on the adoption of the rule yesterday.

The debate on the bill continued today until 3 o'clock, the hour fixed for the vote, but there was no great interest in the discussion, as the result was too certainly known. After the showdown on the adoption of the rule, the insurgents saw there was not the slightest hope of defeating the bill and consequently they made but a weak attempt to keep their men in line.

The Damage Had Been Done.

A majority of them stood their ground, however, in order that they might be consistent, and knowing that all the damage had been done when they voted against the rule and that they could incur no further displeasure from the administration than they had done in bucking the party leaders.

As on the vote for the rule but two Pennsylvania members voted against the bill. One was the Democratic member, Mr. Klein, and the other Mr. McCreary of Philadelphia. It is stated the insurgents have not yet given up all hope of defeating the bill, but will carry their fight into the senate with a view to securing in that branch the amendments they failed to get in the house. But there seems to be little ground for hope in this direction. It is believed the senate committee on territories will make a favorable report on the bill and the administration senators will use every effort to put it through. While there will be opposition from the Democratic side, yet nothing has occurred to indicate that any senator is sufficiently interested in the bill to undertake to talk it to death, and that is apparently the only method by which its passage can be prevented.

Prohibits Liquor and Polygamy.

The bill as passed provides that Oklahoma and the Indian Territory shall constitute one state under the name "Oklahoma," and that Arizona and New Mexico shall constitute one state, under the name "Arizona." Should the terms of admission be ratified by the residents of the territories in question their respective state constitutions must contain clauses prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors and plural marriages.

The constitution of Arizona must prohibit the sale of liquor to Indians forever and that of Oklahoma for 21 years. There are many other stipulations governing schools, courts and political sub-divisions of the proposed new states. Little interest was manifested in the day's proceedings aside from the actual vote on the bill.

TOWN TOPICS SCANDAL GROWING---PROBE WILL BE PUT IN OPERATION

JEROME AIDED IN EDITORIAL

Hapgood Says District Attorney's Opinion Is Expressed.

COLLIER ON STAND

Said He Started Town Topics Agitation on Account of Miss Roosevelt Attack.

"MY FRIEND, THE SECRETARY"

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 25—The last stage of the trial of Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, charged with criminal libel in the publication of a paragraph commenting upon City Magistrate Deuel's connection with Town Topics, was reached today when the taking of testimony was ended and Edward M. Shepard for the accused editor, made the opening argument for the defense. At the conclusion of Mr. Shepard's address in which he declared that everything stated in the paragraph in Colliers was true and in which he commented severely upon the character of Town Topics as a publication, an adjournment was taken until tomorrow, when District Attorney Jerome will sum up for the prosecution.

Several witnesses were examined today. The striking feature was given by Hapgood when he took the stand in his own behalf and declared what he had written about Town Topics was based upon information furnished him by District Attorney Jerome. Mr. Jerome here caused some merriment by his statement that it seemed after all he was the writer of the article involved.

"That is true in a measure," assented Mr. Hapgood.

Mann Is Recalled.

Robert Collier of Collier's Weekly, testified that Mr. Hapgood has written the article concerning Justice Deuel under instructions from him. District Attorney Jerome recalled Col. W. D. Mann, editor of Town Topics, to give his version of his dealings with Bernard N. Baker of Baltimore, and also to deny the statement that Harry Lehr and several other society people had furnished paragraphs to Town Topics.

The last act of District Attorney Jerome for the prosecution was to place in evidence a letter from former President Grover Cleveland, who had been given an honorary subscription to "Fads and Fancies," stating that he had examined the publication and "thought it an admirable book."

A statement was put into the court record in behalf of Mrs. Clement C. Moore. E. M. Shepard, counsel for the defense, said that Charles S. Wayne, formerly managing editor of Town Topics, has testified that Col. W. D. Mann told him that he had written to Mrs. Moore for photographs and autographs of society people and that she had refused to furnish them. Mrs. Moore's statement was:

It is absolutely untrue that Mrs. Moore was a contributor to Town Topics. Col. Mann sent to her and wrote to her for autographs of various prominent society people for Fads and Fancies, but she refused to give them; her husband refused to become a subscriber to Fads and Fancies and summarily dismissed the visitor that called on him.

Collier Testifies.

Robert J. Collier, the first witness, said:

In October, 1904, a copy of Town Topics was delivered at my house and I saw in it an article referring to Alice Roosevelt, only by her first name. When I went down to the office I called Hapgood's attention to that article and told him I thought it was the vilest article ever printed in any newspaper, and suggested that he write something about it. He did so, an editorial, headed:

"The Most Degraded Paper in the United States."

Hapgood in his article, however, did not name the paper, but when I read the proof I wrote in the name Town Topics, telling Hapgood at the same time that my action would doubtless involve us in personal abuse.

After the arrest of Charles Ahle, the solicitor, Mr. Collier said, Hapgood wrote another editorial and while he was doing so Mr. Collier told him to say in it that it was a disgrace for any judge to be connected with Town Topics.

Under cross-examination by District Attorney Jerome, Mr. Collier said that before the article about Miss Roosevelt appeared in Town Topics, a series of articles containing unpleasant things about the witness was published in Town Topics. Mr. Collier said he was indifferent to what Town Topics said about him. The meaning of the editorial on which the complaint of libel was based, he said, was that Town Topics was engaged in the business of blackmail. Fads and Fancies, he said, brought that aspect of the publication more forcibly to his mind.

President's Participation.

Norman Hapgood was called.

"I believe you are the defendant, although I am not certain," said Mr. Shepard. Mr. Hapgood admitted it. He described the circumstances attending the writing of the editorial on which libel action was based as related by Mr. Collier.

In reply to questions by District Attorney Jerome, Mr. Hapgood said he understood the scheme of Town Topics was to blackmail. He did not think that eminent people were clubbed into Fads and Fancies. Mr. Jerome showed the witness a letter which he did not read, but which purported to relate to the admissability of President Roosevelt's name into Fads and Fancies, and asked:

Do you believe he was forced into the book?

I believe he was not forced.

What induced you to print this editorial?

The information given me by the district attorney himself was the immediate cause, but I had had knowledge for a number of years of the policy of the paper.

Then your judgment was based upon the judgment of the district attorney?

Yes.

After all I am writing this article?

Yes, in a measure.

Did you understand that the distinguished ex-president, Grover Cleveland, gave money for the use of his name in Fads and Fancies?

No. I understood he was to have a free copy.

Inspired by Jerome.

Describing his interview with Mr. Jerome, Mr. Hapgood said:

He told me that the scheme ought to be expurgated. He described what he called the "whole bunch," with extreme vigor and expressed the belief that most of these men got their information from Town Topics. He said he believed at striking at the root, at the very fountain head of the whole matter. We were of one belief and concord one the subject.

The defense rested, and District Attorney Jerome recalled Col. Mann, who gave his version of his interview with Bernard N. Baker of Baltimore.

Mr. Baker came to my office and spoke to me about the "nouveaux riche." He said he had noticed in Town Topics advertisements of steamships, railroads, etc., and I told him that we made it a feature. I said no word to him about asking him for advertisements, but, when leaving, he said he would send his manager to have him insert an advertisement.

Later, when he came to see me, I came to the conclusion that the man must want notoriety from his talk. He objected to articles printed in Town Topics, but I said that we would not print any more of them. I told him that our editorial department was run in the interests of the public good; that is to say, in the interests of what our readers demanded. Later on when I was in Baltimore I called upon Mr. Baker.

The secretary of war, a friend of mine, told me that Mr. Baker was a very wealthy man. I needed money at the time, and I went to Mr. Baker and asked for a loan of $5,000, and told him I would give him 25 shares of stock in Town Topics. I did not use the word reciprocity. There were no unpleasant paragraphs printed about Mr. Baker.

Mann Had Some Friends.

What about this list of immunes?

I have no recollection of a list being prepared of such, but before I went to Europe I had a talk with Mr. Wayne, the managing editor, and I told him to be very careful about the people he would criticize while I was away; that I, like any other decent man, had a great many personal friends whom I did not wish to offend.

Col. Mann said that Burton Harrison wrote the introduction to Fads and Fancies, but that neither Mrs. Clement C. Moore, Mrs. Andrew Simmons nor Harry Lehr ever gave him an item of information.

Neither President Roosevelt nor Grover Cleveland, he said, ever paid any money for the use of their names in Fads and Fancies. Bishop Potter, the witness said, was also on the free list.

The witness' attention was called to a letter written by Justice Deuel, in which he wrote that the fortunes of Town Topics had wavered "because reciprocity has not been used between the editorial and advertising departments," and Col. Mann said he himself never used the word "reciprocity."

That he made use of the incident between Davy Crockett and the coon in an editorial and that Justice Deuel alluded to the subscribers to Fads and Fancies as coons, he said was only a coincidence.

District Attorney Jerome read a letter from Mr. Cleveland in which he said that he had gone over Fads and Fancies and considered the book to which he had subscribed an admirable one. The letter became part of the evidence.

Baker's Steamships.

How soon after Baker had sold his steamships to the war department for $4,000,000 did you go to Baker's office?

Two years. I learned from the secretary of war in 1898 that Baker had performed the patriotic action of turning his steamships over to the government.

Then those unpleasant articles against Baker began to appear?

There were some items about Mr. Baker published.

Judge Deuel, being recalled by Mr. Jerome, made some corrections in his former testimony, and then in reply to questions by Mr. Jerome, said he never knew anything about the Society Editors' Association, composed of Wayne and others, until the Ahle matter came out. He was consulted by Wayne about libelous articles only once. It was in the nature of an attack, he said, and he marked with a question mark on the paper opposite them the paragraphs which he thought ought not to appear. Judge Deuel said he never had the power of eliminating or accepting articles.

If you make a promise, do you mean to keep it?

I do.

And when you wrote to Commodore Gerry that every promise you made concerning the Fads and Fancies plan would be carried out, did you mean to keep it?

Yes, without looking after the details of the plans of Fads and Fancies. The plans were carried out; but up till 1901 I did not think they would succeed.

All your letters about Fads and Fancies were written before you became justice of the court of special sessions?

Every one.

Called Corrupt Judge.

The Rev. DeLyon Nichols, of Newport, was in court to testify, but was not called. He said he was not a social contributor to Town Topics, but had sent in one or two articles, including a satire.

Edward M. Shepard in summing up for the defense, said that technically the parties to the case are the people of the state of New York as complainant and Mr. Hapgood as defendant, but that no one who had attended the session of the court could believe but that the real parties are Hapgood and Town Topics and Justice Deuel.

We say that the business of Town Topics was to print scandal or to suppress it for payment of money by those who were cowardly. In taking this money we say Deuel was a corrupt judge. He was a judge beyond doubt, and he was corrupt beyond doubt. He was a corrupt judge.

The polished gentleman who comes to see us for Town Topics does not come after the fashion of a bandit demanding your money or your life, but in the most kindly and suave way he tells you that the boys of the office want to print a story, but that they can be bought off. Col. Mann got money from a trust company of which Thomas F. Ryan is the vice president without putting up collateral or a note with the names of two solvent men on it. That is not usually the way a trust company does business, but Col. Mann insolvent with two judgments standing against him goes down to that company and on his note gets $10,000. He got $76,000 from James R. Keene on real estate, over which, while loans on that sort of property follow searching examinations of title, which occupy weeks.

Town Topics, he said, is composed of men bribed to betray confidences. Servants, valets and even ministers were asked to betray their secrets. Mr. Shepard then read instructions of Col. Mann to what he called the sneaks in clubs, in kitchens and churches, in which the colonel pointed out that ridicule was more effective than abuse.

WHEELER'S LAST CALL ANSWERED

"Old Joe," Idol of Confederate Soldier and Great Figure of Spanish War, Dies.

HONORED IN MANY WALKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Gen. Joseph Wheeler, the famous confederate cavalry leader and a brigadier general of the United States army since the war with Spain, died at 5:35 o'clock this afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. Sterling Smith, Brooklyn. The veteran of two wars was 69 years old, but in spite of his age there was hope until yesterday of his recovery from the attack of pneumonia, which caused his death.

It has not yet been decided where the body will be interred, but probably it will be in Arlington National cemetery, near Washington. Announcement will be made tomorrow.

Gen. Wheeler was taken ill six days ago at his sister's home, where he lived recently. He contracted a severe cold which developed into pleurisy and pneumonia. From the first his age told against him. Gen. Wheeler's immediate relatives were with him. His daughters, Mrs. W. J. Harris and Misses Anne, Lucille and Carrie Wheeler, had been summoned from the west and arrived early in the week. His son, Major Joseph Wheeler, stationed at West Point, was present.

Mourner Commits Suicide.

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—Brooding over the fatal illness of her old family friend, Gen. Joseph Wheeler, was the immediate cause, it is said, of the suicide at the Sherman house tonight of Mrs. Margaret Bailey, who died of strychnine poisoning just as the news of Gen. Wheeler's death reached Chicago.

Twelve years ago Mrs. Bailey was known in Washington society, especially in army circles. At the death of her husband she found a reversal of fortune, having been left with little means. She then came to Chicago and secured employment as a traveling saleswoman. Recently she had been despondent because of financial troubles.

Mrs. Bailey was greatly grieved when she learned of the critical condition of Gen. Wheeler. Today she received a telegram saying that Gen. Wheeler could live only a short time, and she took poison.

Gen. Wheeler's Active Career.

From his birth he possessed great energy and power of initiative which led him when a boy to leave his birth place, August (Ga.). He graduated from West Point academy in 1859, being immediately commissioned a lieutenant of cavalry and sent to serve on the frontier of New Mexico. Like many of his brother officers he resigned in 1861 and cast his fortunes with the confederacy, receiving to begin with, a commission as lieutenant of artillery. This was followed by successive promotions to command of a regiment, brigade and division.

When only 26 years old, Gen. Wheeler was assigned to the command of the army corps of cavalry of the western army of the confederacy and there he achieved a reputation of a daring, sleepless commander, which placed him in the hearts of southerners in a no less favorite niche than that occupied by Gen. Stuart and Fitzhugh Lee.

At Chickamauga he harried Rosecrans' supply train, capturing and destroying millions of dollars worth of munitions. He was the untiring foe of Sherman during his march to the sea. When peace came he was the senior cavalry general of the confederate army. The end of hostilities meant the end of the war for him.

Member of Congress.

The law, politics and cotton planting attracted Gen. Wheeler's efforts thenceforward. To represent the Huntsville (Alabama) congressional district he was elected in 1884, and served in each succeeding session until 1898.

When the war spirit swept over the country President McKinley's most popular act was the appointment of Gen. Wheeler and Gen. Fitzhugh Lee to be major generals of volunteers. This made the south love McKinley. Gen. Wheeler in the day of his commission was anxious to get where the fighting was going on. Things were in chaos but with great energy Gen. Wheeler, wearing the shoulder straps of the American army officer for the first time in 37 years, obtained for himself assignment with the columns destined for Cuba.

In the Santiago campaign he achieved fame second to none, and what he did there is remembered better than the acts of any man except Theodore Roosevelt. The test of his service in Cuba was the opinion of the officers who served with him.

Gen. Wheeler obtained permission to go to the Philippines and crossed the Pacific with a foreboding that he would never return alive but happy in the thought that he would meet death in active service. Returning to the United States, Gen. Wheeler was anxious to resume his legislative duties, but the question was raised as to the constitutionality of his serving as a member of congress while he was on the army list, and he failed to qualify.

No man in public life in Washington ever won more firm friends than Gen. Wheeler. Those who knew him as "Old Joe" Wheeler loved him.

STATE OFFICERS' FEES

own personal use. He says that he has so systematized the work of his office that it would be difficult for another to take his position. There is nothing in the act to prevent the actuary from dividing his fees with the commissioner. As the law stands, there is no provision for the state securing any of these collections.

When the act was put on the statute books the insurance business done in the state was small and the fees just about compensated the actuary for his work. The marvelous growth of the business, without a reduction in the fee, has caused the office to become the prize one of the commonwealth. The fees are entirely separate from the ones amounting to about $20,000 a year, which by law are given to the commissioner.

A Deal Is Charged.

In some quarters it is charged tonight that George B. Luper, who was insurance commissioner under Gov. Pattison, had a written agreement with Mr. Forster, who was then the actuary. Under this alleged agreement there was to be a division of the fees and that when Col. James H. Lambert became commissioner under Gov. Hastings in 1895 there was trouble over $5,000. Luper is alleged to have claimed the money and then showed the agreement to three Harrisburg lawyers. It is claimed the attorneys told him the agreement was against public policy and would not stand.

Mr. Forster was asked about this alleged agreement and denies that it existed. He says that if there had been such a paper it would not have stood in law. Mr. Forster will give information concerning the administration of Luper and Lambert if the committee requests it.

The resolution for the investigation was introduced by Senator Herbst (Dem.), of Berks. It is as follows:

Whereas, It appears from the report of the commissioner of insurance to the legislature that the enormous sum of $58,191 was received in fees during the past six months by one of his surbordinates, known as actuary of the insurance department, not a penny of which seems to have been turned into the state treasury or accounted for to the auditor general; and,

Where, The present insurance commissioner says that he did not receive one cent of this money; and,

Whereas, The present actuary, R. E. Forster, is reported in a reputable newspaper as saying that he would like to go on the stand before a committee of the legislature; therefore, be it

Resolved, That a committee of five, three of the majority and two of the minority members, of the senate, be appointed to at once summon the said R. E. Forster to appear before it and give all the information he has in regard to the manner and method of the collection of this money and the final recipient of the same.

Wanted to Kill Resolution.

When the resolution was offered Senator Brown of Philadelphia moved to place it on the table. There were no seconds to the proposition. Mr. Sisson of Erie then moved to refer it to the judiciary general committee with instructions to report in five days. This found a second in Mr. Roberts of Montgomery. It was argued that the matter is extremely important and the committee should have ample time to consider the resolution. The point was also made that under a rule of the senate all standing and special committees must be named by the president pro tem. Mr. Woods of Greensburg, the president pro tem, is absent and will not be here until Monday night. As a consequence no committee could be named until then, and no delay would be occasioned by reference to the judiciary committee.

The Democrats fought for immediate action. The vote resulted in a victory for them by a vote of 18 to 16. The nays were:

Republicans—Crawford, Dedrick, Wilbert, Woods, Allegheny; Edmiston, Bradford; Gable, Philadelphia; Manbeck, Juniata; McConkey, York; Miller, Bradford; Stewart, Franklin; Gedcharles, Northumberland.

The Democratic nays were:

Those voting to refer to the committee were all Republicans, and were:

Holland, Crawford; Brown, Shepard, Philadelphia; Frith, Luzerne; Chenings, Warren; Fox, Dauphin; Garberich, Lebanon; McNees, Armstrong; McPherson, Adams; Phillips, Lawrence; Roberts, Montgomery; Sisson, Erie; Stineman, Cambria; Stober, Lancaster; Thomas, Schuylkill; Thomson, Chester.

Will Limit the Inquiry.

This is the first senatorial investigating committee since 1895, when the famous Lexow body was named to investigate the governments of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. Then the house refused to pay the expenses of the committee because it had no voice in the inquiry.

The resolution today would apparently limit the inquiry to the information in the possession of Forster. The Democrats take the position that it is up to Forster to produce the witnesses involved by his testimony. If there is a hitch over this program, they say it will not be difficult to increase the scope of the inquiry. This is no doubt correct, as the Republicans are anxious for a full investigation and have no desire to cover up anything.

The house today passed finally the bills to abolish fees in the offices of the insurance commissioner and secretary of the commonwealth and place these officials on salary. A committee that saw the governor to ascertain whether the fixing of salaries comes within his call reported that he was satisfied to have the legislation passed. The house accordingly passed the proposition up to him.

MORE SURVIVORS ARE PICKED UP

Twenty Passengers of Valencia Rescued Almost Exhausted from Life Raft.

HOPE IS NOT ABANDONED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 25.—A telegram tonight from Neah Bay says that the tug Pioneer has put in there with the report that the steamer City of Topeka has picked up 23 survivors of the wreck of the steamer Valencia and is still cruising in the vicinity.

VICTORIA, B. C., Jan. 25.—A special from Pachena Telegraph Hut, where the correspondent cut in with an instrument, reports that steamers Salvor and Whaler Orion and another steamer, believed to be the City of Topeka, off the mouth of Darling river. A small boat from the Seivor tried to get through the surf to make a landing and succor the survivors, but failed.

The boat returned to the steamer. The surf will not be navigable for several days.

The survivors at Darling river are from boats No. 2, and No. 5 from the Valencia. They reported that 15 men started from the steamer in boat No. ?. It capsized and seven of its occupants were washed ashore. The other eight perished. All wore life preservers.

Boat No. 5 left the wreck with six or seven on board. It was also capsized and only two, Richley and Bunker, the former a fireman and the latter a passenger bound to Seattle, made the land.

The wife and two children of F. F. Bunker went down before his eyes.

Valencia Submerged.

The whaling steamer Orion arrived at Banfield Creek station this afternoon and reported having seen three men on shore around a fire. It was thought these men were survivors as yet unaccounted for. The Valencia lay submerged, with only a portion of a mast sticking out of the water.

The nine survivors at Darling river telegraph but are reported from Bamfield to be so overcome by exposure and exhaustion that they are unable to stand, much less to make their way to the nearest place of shelter. One has a sprained ankle, the others are without boots.

It is impossible for them to reach Bamfield or Cape Beale, even if they could cross the flooded Darling river. They have no provisions other than those provided by three men who went to them from Bamfield with a small supply yesterday.

Three bodies were recovered this afternoon. Little wreckage is washing ashore. Only some sheets, pillows and ribbons have been picked up.

Perilous Rescue.

SEATTLE, WASH., Jan. 25.—The rescue ship City of Topeka picked up a life raft at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon six miles off Cape Beale with 20 survivors of the Valencia on board. The men were in a pitiable condition and almost dead from exposure. They were half frozen and practically unconscious from the exposure. The raft was sighted about 12 o'clock, but owing to the thick weather it was supposed to be nothing but a log.

A terrible sea was running. One minute the raft was poised on top of a wave and the next it would be lost from view in the gully formed by the mountainous breakers. The men on their frail support battled bravely with a pair of oars to reach the City of Topeka.

Within half a mile from the raft a boat was lowered from the Topeka in charge of Second Mate Burke, who succeeded in making fast a line to the raft.

The survivors told terrible tales of the wreck of the vessel. When they left the ship there were about 90 people on board, most of them clinging to the rigging. Men, women and children were being swept by every sea. As soon as the men got aboard Dr. B. F. Whiting, assisted by two nurses and members of the crew, hastily administered stimulants and put them to bed.

Story of Wreck.

G. Wilets, one of the passengers rescued from the raft, said:

"The ship struck at 12:07 on the morning of Tuesday. I was on deck at the time, smoking a cigar and was looking at my watch when the first crash came. In an instant all was excitement. The command to back her off was given and she went astern at full speed, but it was too late. The wind swung the vessel's stern to the beach and her head to the waves. Every wave now washed clear over her and people who hastily rushed on deck went to their deaths without time to murmur a prayer.

"The order was given to get out the boats. Two of them on the weather side were launched and were smashed like egg shells. Then came the attempt to get out the lee boats. Purser O'Farrel took charge. Four men and a number of men went into the boat. I do not know how many, but she was practically full. Just as they were lowering the other, the davits broke and the stern of the boat fell to the water while the bow hung in the air. Every one was precipitated into the sea and swept away in an instant.

"The ship struck in a bad spot. She is directly at the foot of a precipitous bluff that comes sheer to the water's edge. One man was swept ashore and succeeded in landing on a small rock. We shot a line to him, and he then tried to climb the cliff, but fell and was killed before our eyes.

Mast Fell With People.

"Another sad calamity occurred. About 15 or 20 persons, among them one or two women, had taken refuge in the foretop mast. Suddenly the mast tottered and there came a shriek from those on it, and next moment it fell with a crash, carrying its load of human freight to a terrible death. I do not think there was a single one saved.

"To add to our misery, the last of our food was washed away. We had no water to drink save the bitter cold sleet. The wind and rain combined with the sea soon numbed us. Every little while one of those in the rigging would lose his hold and be swept away to the sharp rocks."

Survivors are of the opinion that Capt. O. M. Johnson, master of the Valencia, made no effort to save his own life. According to their stories, Capt. Johnson was heartbroken. With drawn face Capt. Johnson, clinging to the rigging with the passengers, thought only of those with him, and time and again prayed for assistance.

BRIDGE COMBINE SHOWS ITS HAND

Bill Compelling County Commissioners to Advertise for Bids Is Smothered.

HOUSE CAUSES A SURPRISE

HARRISBURG, Jan. 25.—Evidence of the bridge builders combine trying to block the passage of legislation framed for the purpose of preventing graft in the letting of contracts has appeared. Today the house by a vote of 84 to 70 decided a bill introduced by Mr. Smith of Indiana is not germane to the call of the governor. The bill compels county commissioners to advertise for bids for all bridge contracts for repair work in excessive of $100. Recent developments in Indiana and other counties have shown the necessity for such legislation.

It will be recalled that in the latter part of 1905 the commissioners of Westmoreland and Washington counties attempted to award a contract for joint bridge at a cost of $194,000. A competing concern without even an opportunity to see the plans offered to do the work for half the sum. Judge John Add McIlvaine, of Washington, prevented the awarding of the contract for $194,000 when the matter was called to his attention.

Judge McIlvaine wrote to Gov. Pennypacker concerning the subject in his call relative to bridges and desired information as to whether it was broad enough to admit of legislation which would cure just what had been attempted. The governor replied that such legislation was admissable and suggested that the judge prepare the bills. Judge McIlvaine then wrote the two Campsey bills. One provides for the fullest publicity concerning the letting of contracts and the other relates to trolley companies occupying county bridges.

Governor's Views Disregarded.

Mr. Campsey introduced his bills at the same time Mr. Smith submitted his proposed legislation. All three were sent to the committee on counties and townships. Chairman Snyder was in doubt about the admission of the legislation and appointed Representatives Campsey, Harmon and Stevens to see the governor. Mr. Pennypacker told the committee there was no doubt about the two bills relative to contracts. He did not say the trolley measure was germane.

In view of this knowledge there was considerable surprise when the house took the action of today. When the Smith bill was reached on first reading an eastern member raised the point of order the legislation was not germane to the call. Speaker Walton referred the matter to the house for a decision. During the debate Mr. Bowersox, of Synder, charged the existence of a "bridge trust" in Pennsylvania that stifles competition. Mr. Smith defended his measure and showed the governor admitted its right to consideration. The house then by a vote of 84 to 79 sustained the point of order.

There will be an effort made Monday night to reconsider this action and some very plain statements will probably be made. The letter of Gov. Pennypacker to Judge McIlvaine is in the possession of one of the Washington members.

No More Corn on the Wagon.

The special committee to ascertain from the governor whether he desired to submit any other legislative subjects, received this message from him which has established the executive's reputation as a humorist and his ability to say things without committing himself:

When the wagon is full of corn it is better to unload into the crib before taking on any more. Come to me with suggestions as to further legislation during the special session after there has been a disposition made of those now before the legislature.

For the present it does not appear to me to be wise to add to them, even though important matters may have been omitted.

SAMUEL W. PENNYPACKER.

Speaker Walton refuses to interpret the message, but it is generally believed the governor will not add to the corn on the wagon.

The Greater Pittsburgh bill was not reported from committee today. Chairman Shern did not know that a meeting of the committee was desired this morning to insert the amendment desired by McKeesport and he went to Philadelphia last night. The matter must now wait until Monday night.

Col. J. M. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, came here tonight on his way east. He spent the evening with the Democratic members and said his visit was entirely for the purpose of complimenting his little band and encouraging them. It may be that some resolutions by which the Democrats hope to make political capital will appear in the house in the morning as a result of the colonel's appearance.

The senate has adjourned until Monday night. The house will meet in the morning and then adjourn until Monday night.

Will Report Banking Bill.

The house committee on banks tonight agreed to report tomorrow the bill introduced by Representative Jackson of Armstrong for the protection of state deposits, with several changes. The bill was drafted by Attorney General Carson and has the approval of Gov. Pennypacker.

The change adopted by the committee last night provided that application for deposits must be made to the state treasurer, instead of to the revenue commissioners, though the latter and the banking commissioner are to decide whether or not the application is to be granted. The deposit is not to exceed 25 per cent of the capital, surplus and undivided profits of the financial institution receiving it, and no institution is to receive more than $500,000, except on active depository in Harrisburg, two in Philadelphia and two in Allegheny county, which are not limited as to the amount of deposits.

No change was made in the provision compelling every institution to pay 2 per cent interest, and the state treasurer is required to file monthly with the auditor general a statement showing where the state moneys are deposited, which must be advertised in six newspapers in the state.

EXPOSE METHODS OF STANDARD OIL

The Turrell Testimony, Hadley States, Is the Best So Far Secured Against Company.

ROCKEFELLER WILL OBEY LAW

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 25.—At the conclusion of the afternoon session here today of the investigation into the Standard Oil Company's methods of doing business, inaugurated by the state of Missouri, Attorney General Hadley of the latter state, who is conducting the examination of witnesses, announced that sufficient evidence had been produced during the day to warrant the bringing of criminal proceedings under the laws of New York. Mr. Hadley said:

"Louis H. Turrell, the accountant of Detroit, and for some 14 years an employe of the Standard Oil Company, who has been on the stand all day, has given us the best exposure of Standard Oil methods of anything which we have yet obtained. I shall send a copy of his testimony to District Attorney Jerome of New York, with the request that it be thoroughly examined and that criminal proceedings be brought against the parties guilty of causing a false signature to be attached to articles of incorporation.

"Mr. Turrell has sworn here today," said the attorney general, "that he was induced by Standard Oil officials to sign the name of F. A. Turrell to the documents when in reality his name is Louis H. Turrell.

Up to Mr. Jerome.

"His testimony further shows that his signature was never sworn to, and the notary who took his affidavit can under the laws of New York be prosecuted for forgery in the first degree. It will be up to Mr. Jerome to say whether the persons who induced Turrell to sign his name falsely can be included in the prosecution."

At the afternoon session of the hearing the cross-examination of Mr. Turrell was begun by Attorney Hagerman, for the Standard Oil Company. In October, 1904, Turrell said, he was notified that his services were no longer needed, but for what reason he never knew. Turrell said he was somewhat disappointed at being discharged, but that he had no animosity against the company. However, when he read of the recent Standard Oil hearing in New York he considered it his duty to offer his testimony to Mr. Hadley and he communicated with the attorney general, who told him he would be glad to have his evidence. He came to Cleveland, he said, on Hadley's invitation.

Mr. Turrell said his expenses to Cleveland had been guaranteed by Mr. Hadley. Mr. Hadley promptly corroborated this statement by saying: "And I will make the guarantee good."

The hearing will be continued at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Rockefeller Is Willing.

Frank Rockefeller gave out a statement this afternoon in which he denied that he had told the deputy sheriff who served him with a subpoena to appear as a witness in connection with the action of the state of Missouri against the Standard Oil Company that he would refuse to testify. Mr. Rockefeller said:

"I have made no statement that I would refuse to respond to a subpoena in this case. I have, however," he explained to Attorney General Hadley, "said that my connection with the oil business ceased six years prior to the time to which this suit refers, and I think that he is satisfied, but should he ask me to appear as a witness I will, of course, respond."

FIRES VOLLEY OF SNUFF AND SNAPS HANDCUFFS

McKeesport Millworker Gives Policeman a Lively Time—He May Be Insane.

After having been arrested, Henry Steelneck, a millworker, snapped the handcuffs as if they had been made of string and fled from his home in McKeesport last evening. He was overtaken and subdued after a fight and now occupies a padded cell at the McKeesport police station, awaiting examination into his sanity.

Steelneck had been acting strangely for several days and last evening, when he became violent, Policeman W. S. Henderson was summoned. When he arrived at the Steelneck home he found the front porch covered with shattered dishes and food intended for the evening meal. Steelneck caught sight of the officer as the latter entered the house, and seizing a box of snuff, he hurled the contents at the officer's face. The latter saved his eyes by dodging. Springing at Steelneck, Henderson, after a struggle, overpowered him and slipped handcuffs on his wrists. With a sudden jerk the millworker broke the handcuffs and started down the street. After a chase of a quarter of a mile Henderson overtook the fugitive and pounded him into submission with a mace. Cut and bleeding from the blows, Steelneck was taken to the police station.

CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

Man Imagines Rig as Being Confiscated and Three Arrests Follow.

William Arend of 452 Cedar street caused considerable excitement last evening in the vicinity of Euclid and Penn avenues by causing the arrest of Valentine Eymer, a lumber dealer of 108 Industry street, and Joseph Watson, bookkeeper for Eymer. Arend came out of a hotel on Euclid avenue and, seeing Eymer and Watson driving off with what appeared to be his buggy, gave chase.

Patrolman L. B. Miller took all three to No. 6 police station. Eymer maintained that the horse and buggy belonged to him, while Arend was positive it was his. Arend was notified that his horse and buggy was still in front of the hotel, and agreed to drop the case, but Eymer and Watson furnished bail and demand a hearing, which will be had this afternoon.

BLAMES TROUBLE ON WIFE

H. B. Gibson Ends His Life in Dramatic Manner After Kissing His Children Goodby.

MONONGAHELA, PA., Jan. 25.—(Special.)—Exclaiming, "I will be across the dark river within an hour," H. B. Gibson this afternoon kissed his children goodby, walked to the bridge which spans Pigeon creek, took off his coat, collar and tie and leaped into the swollen stream. William Oliver saw him plunge through the ice, but was too late to save him. The body was recovered.

In his coat pocket were found two Bibles and this note: "Goodby, all. Nell, you have ruined your family and sent me to heaven, and I know where you will go." The note was intended for his wife.

It is a common failing with most people to allow themselves to be influenced by alluring portrayals of prospective dividends, to be derived from phantom investment propositions. Big returns on the money invested has a magical soothing effect, which acts as a boomerang to the unwary victim, when he realizes that his hard-earned cash has been cruelly separated from him. Promises are not always what they seem. Study conditions before you jump at conclusions. No better investment proposition can be offered to the man of small means than a savings account, bearing 4 per cent compound interest, with the Commonwealth Trust Company, in Fourth avenue. It is safe and profitable and your money is available at any time in case of emergency.

Hay's HAIRHEALTH Saved His Position

Keeps Him Looking Young.

Thousands lose their positions and many fail to procure employment because their gray hairs make them look old. This can be surely avoided at trifling expense.

HAY'S HAIRHEALTH

makes age halt and keeps hosts of people in employment because it takes years from their apparent age. HAIRHEALTH always brings back the natural color and beauty of youth to gray or faded hair. Positively removes dandruff, kills the germ and stops falling hair. Not a dye, but a high-class hair-grower dressing for men and women. Its use cannot be detected.

Aided by Harfina Soap it at once soothes and heals the scalp, destroys microbes, stops itching and promotes fine hair growth on a clean, healthy scalp.

Gentlemen—At 40 my hair began to turn gray. A friend on my road lost his place because his gray hair made him look older than he was. Profiting by his experience, I began using Hay's Hairhealth, and I have the same dark brown curly hair that I had at 21. Have held my position, though many younger men, whose only fault was their gray hair, have been dismissed. I thank you for my position.—N. J. RAILROAD CONDUCTOR.

Those Ostrich Plumes for $2, Here Only

The evolution of a plume sale. Tuesday afternoon we announced for the next day a sale of these plumes, having bought about 240. At 10 o'clock Wednesday, seeing they would all be gone by noon, we telegraphed for 360 more. They arrived yesterday morning by express, were on sale by 9:30, and by noon there were very few of the 360 left. The wire was again used for 420 more. They will be in this morning by 9:30.

Like the promoter in the "Sho-Gun," we have a basket of bouquets from which we take an occasional one and throw to ourselves.

Never were ostrich plumes sold in this old peninsula—that is, we mean high-grade ones—for such a price as $2.00. Besides being of a generous length, full and fluffy, they are identical with plumes sold for $3.00 and $5.00.

Ready at 9:30 this morning. White, black and all colors.

Dr. H. B. Burns will make a minority report to select council on the light investigation so there need be no fear that body will not be fully informed of the facts. What it will then do is quite another question. There is no question about public opinion on the subject, for the people have been following the disclosures with interest and will have some use for council roll calls on election day.

Common council has passed the franchise of the South Side Electric Company, so if Mayor Hays does not interpose a veto that company may offer a competitive bid for lighting that part of the city. The franchise provides for payment of 2 per cent of net receipts to the city and street lights at a cost not exceeding $75 a year. It is a liberal franchise, but an improvement on the sort usually granted.

Railroad President Stickney made a valuable contribution to the discussion of railroad rate regulation in his address last evening. He defined pretty sharply the weakness of the pending legislative remedy and he pointed out the way to secure more far-reaching results. Mr. Stickney is one of the railroad executives who understands the principles and processes of rate making—one of a number that is not large—so his opinions are entitled to some consideration.

Secretary Bonaparte has prepared an amended anti-hazing bill embracing changes suggested by members of the house committee on naval affairs. The bill confers a greater measure of authority upon the head of the Annapolis academy, which will enable him to take the initiative in putting down the obnoxious practice. In the meantime housecleaning by court-martial will proceed and an investigation of the officers' attitude toward the hazing custom has also been suggested.

Each recurring anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns is signalized by celebrations in almost every city in this country. This devotion to the poet's memory cannot be explained wholly by the clannishness of the Scotch, who are so proud of one of their brothers. There are other famous Scotchmen whose memory is not held in such honor. Burns was a particularly "human" poet; he possessed the touch that "makes the whole world kin." Others than Scotchmen hold him in affectionate remembrance.

Supt. Falconer of Allegheny cemetery, a most competent authority, confirms The Gazette opinion that no serious damage has yet been done to fruit and shrubbery. That may come later. Native trees and shrubs have shown no signs of awakening and those imported from cold, inland climates are entirely dormant. Imported Japanese roses, clematis, Persian syringas and a few other plants from milder climates have been stirred by the warm weather and may suffer some in consequence. It is too early to say they have been seriously injured.

Hero hunters should find plenty of material among the firemen in any American city though not entitled to fund medals. They are generally modest fellows, not anxious for publicity or medals. In Boston yesterday a fireman saved two lives at the risk of his own. A man who did not belong to the department was killed while trying to warn a family of its danger. Such instances are common occurrences in the news of the day. The recent hotel fire at Minneapolis furnished numerous examples of heroism. The fact is, there are so many cases of everyday heroism the word is in danger of losing its significance.

By a vote of 194 to 150 the statehood bill has passed the house at Washington. The majority gained two votes and the minority lost 15 votes as compared with the test on the rule reported on Wednesday. The matter was given a political complexion owing to the belief the new state of Oklahoma will elect Democratic senators, while the new state of Arizona, under the New Mexico influence, is expected to be Republican. This is mere conjecture. Oklahoma, including Indian territory, is very likely to be Republican, and Arizona may be Democratic. Partisan reasons did not influence the President's recommendation and ought not to affect final disposition of the bill.

Pushing the Deal.

Candidate Guthrie's friend and supporter, Director Bigelow, was in personal command of the fight in common council to pass the boulevard compromise last night, but failed to do so. He succeeded in getting 31 votes—three less than a constitutional majority for suspending the rules. Among the 31, be it said with shame, were six who call themselves Republicans. While not strong enough to suspend the rules the Bigelow faction is strong enough to pass the ordinance in three sessions and to complete the deal, unless citizens use pressure to bring councilmen to their senses.

Mr. Brand's resolution providing for an investigation of the corrupt grant of the boulevard franchise was left as unfinished business, by an adjournment of council while it was pending. Mr. Guthrie's friends in council were afraid to vote to lay the resolution on the table, or to kill it by indefinite postponement, but they flocked in on the motion to adjourn, thereby avoiding a record on the main question. Apparently they are not as willing as Mr. Guthrie, himself, to have this matter investigated, and have not been influenced by his expletory consent to have the investigators go as far as they please.

Inasmuch as 32 of the Bigelow-boulevard councilmen are attached as a tail to Mr. Guthrie's kite—that is, nominated for re-election on Mr. Guthrie's ticket, by his friends and supporters, the outlook is not good in case that ticket is elected. Mr. Guthrie's influence has not been sufficient to secure an investigation and only three Democrats voted against rushing the ordinance through without an investigation. Under like conditions Mr. Guthrie could hardly give an administration that would satisfy the people, or himself.

Unloading at Harrisburg.

Gov. Pennypacker has given a characteristic and pertinent reply to the legislative committee sent to ascertain if he would issue another supplementary call to the special session. When the wagon is loaded with corn, said the governor, it is better to unload before piling on more corn. When the work for which the session was called has been done, the governor says he will consider giving it more work to do. Honestly and wisely spoken. The special session was called for certain legislation. More diligence in disposing of that work and less in trumping up new causes for action will please the commonwealth and the governor.

In the way of "unloading," the house has passed the two bills repealing amendments of last session to the Bullitt bill. Committees have reported on a majority of the measures introduced and the Campsey bridge bill has been ruled out on the ground it does not come within the governor's call. The reapportionment bills are giving the usual trouble in the effort of ambitious statesmen to have districts arranged to suit them without coming into violent conflict with the constitution. The general desire to accomplish the reforms proposed is in evidence, though the handful of Democratic members exhibit more anxiety to make political capital than to serve the public interest.

The latest bill to be introduced is the administration measure to protect the state treasury. This bill is so good that Democrats are complaining it will tie the hands of the Democratic treasurer after May 1 so tight he cannot go wrong if he desires to do so. No better testimony is needed on the merits of the act. It is legally tight and will actually protect the public funds from political manipulation. This is not what the Democratic politicians want; it is not what they fought so hard to gain; but it is precisely what the people will approve.

In this connection a most amusing comment is made by a local contemporary that supported Berry and threw fits over the alleged political wrecking of the Enterprise National bank. This bill, it says, will protect the state, but how about other depositors? It proceeds to point out the state will not lose a dollar by the Enterprise failure—a contention of The Gazette from the beginning—but other depositors will. It is not the duty of the state to protect other depositors in national banks. There is national supervision and inspection for that purpose. Depositors in state banks and trust companies are protected by the state banking department, not in connection with state funds. The governor's call was for legislation to safeguard state funds, increase interest on same and to prevent handling of such funds for private profit. The fact that a Democratic treasurer has been elected does not alter the necessity for such legislation.

Literature and Lucre.

An English thief helped himself the other day to jewels belonging to Lady Parker, wife of Sir Gilbert, the well-known novelist. The gems have been variously valued by correspondents at from $4,000 to $75,000. Whatever they were worth, the incident has given rise to numerous comments in the public prints on the prosperity of the modern writer of fiction as compared with the condition of his predecessor of a generation or two ago. "It must pay to write novels nowadays," observes one editor. Another cites the price of 5 cents a word which several magazines pay for short stories. The impression is created that authorship is the royal road to riches and that there are no precedents for the high prices now prevailing in the literary market.

Undoubtedly some very mediocre literary performances are being rewarded with a lavish hand by editors who demand a certain class of matter for their readers, but the high water mark prices of today are by no means unprecedented. Sir Leslie Stephen in his life of Dickens mentions that the master received $6,000 for his short story, "Hunted Down," in the New York Ledger, in the palmy days of that publication when it was owned by Robert Bonner, and a similar sum for a short story that will now have an unfamiliar sound to Dickensites, "George Silverman's Explanation," which appeared in the Atlantic Monthly. Several of Dickens' novels netted him from $25,000 to $50,000 each. Thackeray also received financial rewards that would be envied by most of the popular writers of today. Writers of the second rank undoubtedly receive better prices for their work than the "penny-a-liners" of a generation ago, but the leaders' profits are not record-breakers in the field of literature. In discussing the subject of authors' incomes one must not forget that there are press agents in the publishing business, as in many others.

What Kind of Economy?

Candidate Guthrie has gone so far he can hardly refuse to go farther in specifying the kind of government he will give this city if elected. He has declared the government of the past three years to have been economical. If elected will he strive for the same sort of economy? Will he sanction bond issues to meet current expenses rather than to permit the real expenditures to appear in the millage of direct tax levy? Will he oppose proper expenditures and a progressive civic policy in order to make a pretense of economy?

Mr. Guthrie cannot pass these questions off with an assumption that his record answers them, or that his superior virtue covers the ground. In these very things lies the essence of good government and of genuine economy. They are the vitals of municipal management. Having broached the subject, Mr. Guthrie should be frank with the people and specific concerning his intentions.

Every taxpayer knows how much this alleged economical administration has cost him. Every taxpayer can compare the $1 extorted from him by what Mr. Guthrie is pleased to term the profligate Republican ring, with the $1.25 exacted by the "economical" Democratic-Citizens machine. By a little effort of memory the taxpayer can compare the quality of administration six years ago with that during the past three years and determine whether he has more for his $1.25 than he had before for his $1. After he has done that he has a right to demand of George W. Guthrie a plain reply to the question, if he intends to practice the "economy" of the past three years and the 12⅔ mills tax.

The Tale of a Tiff.

Since we have it on excellent authority that the course of true love is not like a park boulevard, there is no reason for making an exception in the case of a royal courtship. It is Cupid's delight to bring about little tiffs between kings and princesses as well as plebeian lovers. The incident in which Alfonso of Spain and Ena of Battenberg have just figured illustrates the advantage there is in being a king if one does happen to have a little tiff. For some time past these interesting young persons have been exchanging picture postcards daily. The other day Princess Ena's card failed to arrive at the usual hour and Alfonso first became impatient, then angry, then furious. He had already mailed his card to Ena, but exercised his kingly prerogative and ordered its return by the postoffice authorities. Then he sat down and dashed off an indignant complaint to his lady love and marked it "Rush." A little later the missing postcard from Ena was discovered in the Madrid postoffice and delivered in haste to the royal palace. There are several young women clerks in the postoffice, so the delay was perfectly natural. Then Alfonso issued a hurry order to stop his letter of protest. It had already left Madrid but was intercepted at Biarritz, where Princess Ena is staying, so the young woman was none the wiser until she read the story in the newspapers.

It is a lucky thing for Alfonso that he is a king; otherwise such an exhibition of pettishness might have cost him his bride. Persons of lesser rank are not able to interfere with the delivery of the mails in that fashion. There is a well authenticated incident of a young man in Pittsburgh who, in addressing letters to two young women, enclosed a proposal of marriage in the wrong envelope. Discovering his error a little later, he sought to have the letters returned, but met with stern refusal. Kings are privileged persons, however, and nobody will begrudge Alfonso the obtaining of a courtesy that saved him from an exceedingly embarrassing explanation.

After finishing with the witnesses of real importance in New York's interesting court case, the defendant was called to the stand for a few words. The public has taken the measure of the real defendants.

The anti-profanity societies are doing good work, but their efforts are eclipsed by the Chicago philanthropist who declares he has discovered "how to make babies stop crying."

One of the most sensational items in the day's news is the resignation of an Ohio man from office. The mystery is solved when it is explained the office paid only $1 a year.

There is some speculation as to what college Poultney Bigelow will attach himself to next. What institution desires a chair of lightning investigation?

Artemus Ward's famous question, "Have you ever had the measles, and if so, how many?" may soon be a popular one in Pittsburgh.

A friend says Senator Tillman is "quiet and inoffensive in private life and loves to cultivate roses." But he doesn't throw bouquets.

Evidently editors of New York society papers have a hard time dodging people who want to force money on them.

Col. Mann evidently believed that one touch of Wooster would make the whole world give.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS ON WAYS OF WORLD

Tell the Man Your Birthday and He Will Do the Rest.

By ERASMUS WILSON.

In what month were you born and in what part of it?

If you will take the answer to the man in the front part of the almanac who has been ripped open and allowed to stand for ages in this exposed condition, he will tell you what you are fit for, what is liable to happen to you, and whom to marry.

At least this is what is promised by the astrologer, who is older than the almanac man—so old in fact that no one knows how old he really is. He claims to have been on the plains with Abraham, and to have been well established in business before the cities of Tyre and Sidon were established.

As you will notice, the man referred to has been divided into twelve parts, known as the signs of the zodiac. Each sign is 30 degrees, or one-twelfth of the circuit of the earth around the sun.

According to astrologers, or wise men of the east, the particular part of the zodiac in which the earth is at the time of birth determines the general character of the individual, while his peculiar characteristics are determined by the relative position of the planets to his sign.

The Chaldeans are credited with being the fathers of astrology, and according to legend Abraham had a zodiac tattooed on his breast, so that anyone looking upon him might know his fate.

Although astrology was not a part of the teaching of the Hebrews, yet some of the greatest astrologers were Jews of much learning and wide influence. Solomon was said to be an expert astrologer.

* * *

The months of the year as now arranged do not coincide with the signs of the zodiac, there being parts of two signs in each month. For instance, the sign aquarius, water carrier, began January 18, at 7:38 p. m., and will end February 17, at 3:41 a. m. As you may see by reference to the map, this sign is located in the legs below the knees, while the next sign, pisces, the fish, is in the feet.

According to established astrological tables, those born at the dates and times given above are passive in disposition, practical in tastes, emotional in feelings and nervous in temperament.

Love home, books and children.
Easily persuaded or influenced.
Feelings easily hurt, but not combative.
Generally happy, but tender-hearted.
Have no inventive genius. Small executive ability.
Greatly wedded to conventional forms and beliefs; satisfied with things as they are; easily impressed with form or ceremony.
Continue in the way of their ancestors.
Not inclined to become heretical or progressive in thought.
Make agreeable companions, good natured and dread any disagreement.
Dignified, rarely passionate or quick-tempered.
Usually sensitive.
Inclined to be vacillating and capricious.
The ideal world is of greater importance to them than the real world.
Inclined to diseases of the lower leg.
Persons born under this sign will be very uncongenial with those born in the same month, or in December or February, but very congenial with those born in May, June or July.
The rule for selecting life partners is to choose from those born in the opposite sign, which means opposite temperament.

* * *

According to the table, if you were born between February 17, 3:41 a. m., and March 21, 7:16 a. m., you are negative in disposition, practical in tastes, intellectual in feelings, nervous in temperament.

A negative disposition and nervous temperament finds a good balance in practical tastes and intellectual feelings.

Able to see the other side of all questions.
Natural distaste for subjects much removed from real life.
Good mental abilities, but with strong inclination to turn from the metaphysical to the physical.
Natural undertone of sensitiveness, but the ability to see both sides of every question saves them from peevishness or perpetual fault-finding.
Enjoy the exercise of intellectual faculties, but always on the material plane.
Natural distaste for theorizing.
Not easily carried away by plausible statement, able to see ahead, naturally provident, continually forecasting, cautious, sometimes morbidly so, receive every new proposition or situation hesitatingly.
Good judgment, good readers of human nature.
Make good subordinates. Will suffer, but submit.
Inclined to diseases of the feet.

Your affinity will be one born in April, May or June, and be very uncongenial with those born in September, October and November.

* * *

Don't ask if these tables are strictly reliable. They have come down through the ages, and while many have firmly believed in them, many others have hooted and laughed at them.

You might, just for you own satisfaction, note the characters of those born in either of the periods given, and see for yourself whether it hits or not. And you might take into account the sign in which those whom they married were born, just to see if the signs are reliable.

Much has been written concerning the matter of temperament. The astrologer claims that temperament is according to the sign under which the individual was born.

It doesn't matter much how or when a child is born if it is not properly and carefully educated, trained and disciplined. There is something, indeed much, in being well born, but there is equally as much, or more, in being well brought up.

Cold Wave Was Jockeyed.

A Chicago man has made a gambling "book" on the weather and he stands to win a good pile if the thermometer does not touch zero before the close of January. Perhaps this explains the non-arrival of the much touted cold wave. If a cold wave can be jockeyed a Chicago bookmaker is the man to do it.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

In Pittsburgh Cars.

I wonder why all Pittsburgh cars
Are given to such jolts and jars.
You take a fifteen minute ride,
And when it's o'er you can't decide
Whether you've dislocated neck,
Or shoulder blades, or made a wreck
Of all your ribs, your head, your back,
Each has had an awful crack.
Indeed, it weays upon your nerves
To ride around these numerous curves.
If full the car, you grasp a strap,
And as sure as you're living, you meet mishap.
No matter how you hang on tight,
You cannot hold yourself upright.
A sudden jerk and o'er you go
Right on to your neighbor's sorest toe.
Your hat flies sidewise with a flirt,
Trying to look so smart and pert.
Your hair pins skip all o'er the floor—
Adventurous ones scoot out the door;
Your neighbor's elbow or umbrell'
Gives you a poking—does it well;
And when at last you touch firm ground,
You gaze with dizziness around.
Wondering who and where you are
And what your business before that car
Knocked all your former wits up in air
And made you look like a bum on a tear.
Unless the motormen take more pains,
We'll all be limping round on canes.
Unless at their brakes they are more deft,
There'll not be a whole Pittsburgher left.

East McKeesport, Pa., January 24.

THE WORLD'S A STAGE AND WE THE PLAYERS

Gossip of Men and Things on Both Sides of the Footlights.

By CHARLES M. BREGG.

Is the American theater-going public to witness the peaceful disintegration of what for some years has been either roundly denounced as the "soulless theatrical trust," or praised as the acme of business and commercial perfection?

It looks that way.

A veritable bomb shell fell into the camp of the so-called syndicate on Wednesday, when it was announced that E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe would next season play Shakespearean repertoire under the management of the Shuberts. This means that these leading players will cut loose from the Frohman forces and henceforth appear under the flag of the "independents."

* * *

The news fairly stunned some people and could hardly be credited at first. Then came mutual explanations, which, of course, did not really explain. Mr. Frohman naively declares that he had exhausted the possibilities of the star combination and felt that he need not longer continue the present arrangement. This astute manager further declares that he is preparing a big theatrical and dramatic surprise for next season, which takes all his time for this sort of stellar partnership control. Mr. Frohman's ingenuous explanation must be regarded largely in the Pickwickian sense. On the other hand, Mr. Lee Shubert makes a somewhat jubilant statement in which he says that he regards the acquisition of the Sothern-Marlowe entourage as the proudest achievement of his managerial career. Beneath the surface of these mutual explanations it doesn't require much acumen to discover bitter chagrin on the one side and joyful self-complacency on the other.

Practically, this transfer leaves the lines of the old syndicate power, that were once so sharply drawn, somewhat blurred and indistinct, and furnishes evidence of the truth of what is said above, that the real disintegration of the old syndicate has set in. It only required the defection of leading stars to accomplish this at any time. Not until the Shuberts began to acquire theaters and booking routes was there a semblance of chance for a change.

It now looks as though the change has actually been accomplished, and without bloodshed, too.

* * *

Naturally, there is much speculation as to what new dramatic coup Mr. Frohman is preparing to spring in order to take the keen edge off the Sothern-Marlowe defection. Some have guessed that he will star jointly Maude Adams and William Gillette in a big production, while others believe that he is preparing to bring over some big English stars. Miss Adams and Mr. Gillette are now Mr. Frohman's most valued assets. Miss Adams always coins money in the season, and Mr. Gillette is a great money maker.

John Malone is dead.

This may not mean much to the superficial observer of stageland, but it removes from an important field of activity one of the most earnest and gifted men of his times. Malone was, I believe, a Californian, and began his stage career there. Gifted beyond the ordinary he arose rapidly in his profession. Early in his experience on the stage he became a valued member of Edwin Booth's company. Mr. Malone came east in Mme. Mojeska's company and was with that actress for many years. At one time or another he played in support of all the leading American stars. As a Shakespearean scholar and reader Mr. Malone was peculiarly well equipped. Those who may have heard and remember his reading of the lines of the immortal bard will never forget it. Besides being a fine Shakespearean actor Mr. Malone knew Shakespearean literature with surprising thoroughness. He had written voluminously on the subject and had lectured when occasion offered here and there on his pet subject.

* * *

Mr. Malone was last seen in Pittsburgh in support of Henrietta Crosman, and in her revival of "As You Like It" at the then Duquesne theater he played Jaques, reading the "seven ages" with a mellowness of voice and a profoundness of conception that was a treat. An incident of this visit illustrates Mr. Malone's careful scholarship in matters pertaining to Shakespearean plays. In reviewing the performance of "As You Like It," either through my mistake or by a blunder on the part of the printer, I spelled the name of Mr. Malone's role "Jacques." Very promptly I had an erudite little note from the actor correcting the spelling and insisting that the offending "e" had no place in the name. In advancing reasons why this was true Mr. Malone wrote for The Gazette an article of fine thought, showing much study and research, which was published at the time. Death came to the player suddenly, having been stricken with apoplexy while walking along the street in New York, where he spent most of his time since his retirement from the more active work of the stage, though he occasionally appeared at special performances.

It may be questioned whether the public really wants to be told the truth about some things theatrical. Here is pretty little Aphie James, the wife of Louis James, the actor, confessing to a fraud on the public that had it been critically exposed at the time, would have been indignantly regarded as a "knock." Says Mrs. James:

"I impersonated Clara Morris for six weeks last season. It was the hardest thing I have ever done in my life."

Then she explained how it had happened. Last year they went out in an all-star cast of "The Two Orphans." They were Mr. James, Mr. O'Neil, Ella Proctor Otis, Mrs. Lemoyne, Grace George and others, but the big card was Clara Morris. She had only thirty lines to say as Sister Genevieve, but people packed the theater to get what would probably be the last glimpse of Clara Morris. Then she fell ill, and it was Mrs. James' duty to take up her part. Here Mrs. James took the lead:

"I was understudying four different parts and I had to play every one of them during some part of the season. But this was the hardest thing I had ever done in my life. You see, I had to impersonate Miss Morris and cheat the audiences. Miss Morris' name was kept on, and she got paid for that. So that really I was helping her make some money. You see, if they took her name out of the bill we would have had to close. People wouldn't come after they had been promised Clara Morris and didn't get her.

"For weeks I had studied her peculiarities. The western 'r' that she rolls so peculiarly, the palsy in her hands. You know both hands shake so she has to keep one pressed tight in her girdle. And when she would raise her right hand her fingers couldn't close, so I would have to study all that. And the limp she had on account of having sprained a tendon of her ankle. I had to make up old first and then make up young over the old make-up.

"By that time I would feel that I really was Clara Morris, and not myself. Then when I came on the stage the applause would keep me standing there for five minutes, and the tears would roll down my cheeks. I felt so dishonest to take all this applause that was meant for another woman."

Will Not Lessen Accidents.

SOME GOOD STORIES OF PITH AND MOMENT

Gossipy Chat and Anecdote of Entertaining and Instructive Character.

A member of the bar of Baltimore relates how a witness in a trial in that city once "got back" at the lawyer who had been endeavoring to "rattle" the witness by a severe cross-examination.

At a certain point in the proceedings the witness suddenly interrupted the cross-examining lawyer by exclaiming:

"Look here! You needn't think you kin rattle me by askin' all them questions."

"No?" was the sarcastic rejoinder.

"No, sirree!" came in emphatic tone from the refractory witness. "Your questions don't bother me at all. I've raised three sons an' two grandsons, an' I've been in training a good many years."—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Mistaken for Butler.

Lord Newton Butler has been amusing his friends by telling the following story: It was a musical "at home" in Belgravia to which he was invited, and, it being a rainy night, he wore his evening dress. The family butler opened the door to him, looked puzzled, and then asked: "Name, please?"

"Lord Newton Butler," was the reply.

"Oh, Lord Newton's butler, are you? Come along, old chap, and have a drop of something in the housekeeper's room. They've got a job lot up stairs tonight, and your master ain't come, if you're looking for him."

"With pleasure," said his lordship, who spent a chatty five minutes with the butler over a glass of Burton ale. "Much obliged to you, I'm sure; and I think I'll go and have a look at the 'job lot' in the drawing room." And, to the butler's horror, his new acquaintance strode up the stairs and was soon warmly shaking the hand of his hostess.—London Tit-Bits.

Willing to Be Sold.

One of the Missouri representatives in Washington who did some campaigning with Folk during the contest of a year ago tells a story illustrative of the danger of the rhetorical question.

At a small town where Folk was billed to speak a portly man named Siddons had been scheduled to act as presiding officer. He felt the importance and dignity of the occasion keenly, but without knowing very much to say, in opening he rambled on about national issues and the past glories of the Democratic party, till finally he reached the state situation, which he promptly declared was of overwhelming importance to the people of Missouri. To work up a climax he began:

"I will ask you this question: 'Who is this man that has been named for the governorship?' I say, 'Who is Joseph W. Folk?' I repeat it, 'Who is Joseph W. Folk?'"

"Oh, thunder!" squeaked the shrivelled up little man in one of the front seats. "I'll bite, 'Who is he, anyway?'"—Boston Transcript.

Couldn't Trust Him.

After a wordy argument in which neither scored, two Irishmen decided to fight it out. It was agreed that when either said "I've enough" the fight should cease.

After they had been at it about ten minutes one of them fell, and immediately yelled, "Enough! I've enough!"

But his opponent kept on pounding him until a man who was watching them said: "Why don't you let him up? He says he's got enough."

"I know he says so," said the victor, between punches, "but he's such a liar you can't believe a word he says."—Youth's Companion.

Nothing to a Basketful.

A veteran of the civil war used to tell this story of war times: A young Irishman named Thomas Smith was in his company. They had been several days without sighting the enemy, but one morning the rebels surprised them, and the bullets were flying thick and fast.

Tom turned and started to run as fast as his legs could carry him. The captain of his company shouted, "Halt, or I will shoot!"

Why Julia Quit.

The most peculiar reason yet assigned for a servant leaving her place "without notice" was given by a Germantown mistress when asked why Julia, a colored maid, had suddenly quit. "The whole trouble came about last wash day," said the indignant housekeeper. "It began to rain before the wash was done, and when it was ready to hang out it was drizzling at a good rate. Then it was that Julia, the colored help, came upstairs and asked me to loan her my raincoat, while she hung out the clothes. I had never found an umbrella or mackintosh necessary when I did similar work, and declined to grant the request. Then Julia quit."—Philadelphia Record.

SPIRITUAL OPPORTUNITIES.

Faculties of the Deaf and Blind Compared by Missionary.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

The blind hear, and so have a share, with other people, in the oral ministrations of the church, in the soul-stirring strains of music, in public lectures and in the conversation of the social circle. Their affliction is physical in its effects, not mental.

The blind need no special ministry—no traveling missionaries. Daily and weekly religious services are open to them everywhere, in city, town, village and country. Any one of the 200,000 clergy of the United States, who minister by voice, can minister to the blind.

The deaf see; but they live entirely outside of the mind and soul-enlivening current flowing from tongue to ear. In the work of mental and spiritual advancement sight has not the value possessed by hearing. Deafness is mental in its effects. The opportunities of the blind are closed to the deaf.

While the spiritual opportunities of the blind everywhere are the same as those of people who see and hear, those of the deaf are very few. In the United States today only six regularly ordained deaf mute men are laboring among them. Each has a missionary district of enormous extent. The "Silent Missions" in the large cities are from fifty to five hundred miles apart. The ministrations cannot be as frequent as those enjoyed by the blind and other people. That they come as often as they do is due to the rapid transportation of these days. This makes up in some degree for the fewness of the clergy ministering to the widely scattered "silent folk."

For thirty years I have covered in all directions the dioceses from the Alleghenies to the Mississippi and beyond. The territory is known as the Middle West. The dioceses of Kentucky and Lexington are included.

One of my fellow-workers in this silent portion of the Lord's vineyard has the entire southern field to look after. Another has the trans-Mississippi district, formerly under my care. The three remaining missionaries labor in the dioceses east of the Alleghenies, six workers in all to the 200,000 clergy ministering by voice, who can minister to the blind.

So it is easy to see how few the spiritual opportunities of deaf mutes are in comparison with those of the blind.

AUSTIN W. MANN,
General Missionary to Deaf Mutes.

A Great Oversight.

Leibnitz, the foreign linguist who figures that there are only 620,448,791,733,235,739,360,000 words in all languages has evidently overlooked Senator Morgan's speech on the canal question.—Washington Post.

STORIES FOUND IN THE LOBBIES

Interesting Happenings Concerning the People Who Are Traveling.

Despite the fact that the people of Pittsburgh have been enjoying mild weather, almost balmy spring sunshine at times, during the 26 days of the present winter, the travel to California and Florida is going on apace. A former Pittsburgher who is now a resident of Chicago said while here yesterday that Pittsburgh seems to be a pretty good winter resort. But evidently people want a change, whether it is a change to a balmier climate or just a change to get themselves settled. The Golden State special, a palatial train that makes the transcontinental trip from New York to San Francisco every midwinter, passed through Pittsburgh westward last night. About 25 Pittsburghers boarded the train here. From the east there came a large number of people from New York, Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Altoona, and more will be taken on as the train proceeds westward. Agents of the lines reaching out into the far west say that the travel is growing heavier, and that the present winter, which looked unpromising a few weeks ago, will undoubtedly surpass last season.

A larger number of people have gone to Cuba and Porto Rico this winter than ever before for pleasure sojourning. Among those who left for Havana last night were Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Bassett.

Bankers Courting Publicity.

Bankers of Pittsburgh met last night to take further steps toward the formation of a Pittsburgh chapter of the National Bureau of Publicity. The first step in this direction was taken recently in a meeting at the Hotel Lincoln, when addresses on the subject were made by a number of prominent men in banking and advertising circles. Cashier David C. Wills of the Diamond National bank is vice president of the National Bureau of Publicity and is one of the active workers in the formation of the Pittsburgh chapter. The organization was not completed last night and another meeting will be held shortly to complete the work and choose officers.

Glass Tableware Men Meet.

Manufacturers and dealers in glass tableware met at the Monongahela house yesterday in an endeavor to formulate plans for an organization of the glass tableware interests. The organization was not effected, but steps in this direction were such as to indicate that the matter will be completed at the next meeting, which will be held shortly.

LARKIN SCORES HIS OLD FRIENDS

BIG BOND ISSUE MUST COME

Special Correspondence of JOHN B. LARKIN

BEDSIDE, 3617 FIFTH AVENUE, Jan. 25.—While Mr. Morrow has been looking after the office details during my sickness, I have been giving whatever hours the doctor would allow me in the last few days to the appropriation ordinances with Mr. Kimball assisting me. I thought we could get along on 15 mills, but had no thought then of an estimate of $1,540,000 for education, $75,000 additional for fire, $88,000 for highway, $250,000 more for street and sewer assessment and $985,194 84 for judgments, with a demand for over $400,000 for water extension, and an additional $92,000 for Carnegie library, an excess over last year of $2,104,000, or 25 mills to mood over. I am not well enough to get angry over it, but if my doctor will let me out in time there will be music in City hall and lots of trouble.

It looks to me like the consumer against the producer with no one, so far, to stand up for the taxpayers. However, when the committee to which these matters have been referred and councils, who are to act on the appropriations, get a good square look at the figures in the budgets they will, as they should, viciously assail them.

Goes After Director Moore.

Take Director Moore's increase in fire. This involves the purchase of one lot in the Nineteenth ward and one in the Twenty-first ward for engine houses, the rebuilding of the engine house on Mt. Washington at a cost of $65,000 and the purchase of hose, engines, truck ladders and equipments, and furnishment of three houses, now in course of completion, with men, matrons, etc., to man them, and one of the new buildings (First ward) to house two companies where there is now none. That, with three other fire engine houses last year, looks to me like overdoing the fire business, and especially where two engines, trucks, etc., and two sets of firemen are to be covered by one roof in what is said to be the best protected fire district in the world.

I would not stand for an appropriation like that as long as it would require me to take off my hat. They ask for $20,000 for additional police. I should stop right there. The statistics show we have more police to the square mile than any city in the country.

Takes a Fall Out of Bigelow.

I would not give Mr. Bigelow a penny more than $500,000 for highways and sewers. Four years ago he told me, for use before the finance committee, and I am violating no confidence, that $225,000 for that bureau was a bountiful estimate with money left to burn. Four hundred thousand dollars for water extension! I think the water extension and distribution should be made, but I took the position more than one year ago, and will hold it, that the money for this work should come out of the filtration fund and should not be used for measuring water until we have first supplied the water. Mr. Morrow and I went very carefully over that matter and we concluded the requirements of Mr. Sheppard—about $850,000—could be met out of the $7,320,000 already voted, and further, that there was no sense in erecting meters at a cost of $500,000 to measure water until its extension and distribution were provided for.

The library! Well, there's not enough library out here to bother talking about. The salary list is the big end of the whole thing. If I had my way about it I would not give them over $100,000, and would give $50,000 more to Mrs. Ammon, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Longmore, Mrs. Raub, Mrs. Sweeney, Mrs. Patterson, Miss McKnight, Miss Reynard and Miss Bradley for the children's recreation grounds and kindergarten schools.

Praise for the Women.

These ladies do more good and do more to developing and instructing children mentally and physically than the entire library system, and they only had last year $78,000, which included the cost of two rather nice buildings, and I hope to see the day when the library appropriation, outside of the $45,000 originally estimated by Mr. Carnegie, is voted to these ladies and their associates for the use of the children of this city during the recess season.

The judgment list of $968,000 is made up of damages, street openings, reservoir and other claims that are not and cannot be regarded as any part of the city expense account. Take the Werneberg & Sheehan claim of $139,000: That's a relic of the boulevard. M. K. McMullen gets a verdict of $122,000 on Diamond street for damage by opening; Trinity church, $91,000, through widening of Oliver avenue, and Jonathan Clark got a verdict for $219,000, and that's the way these claims run.

We contest them, but as a rule finally have to pay for something that should have been paid for by private property interests. The street and sewer claim of $250,000 is of the same character. More than half of it is for the widening of Webster street. It should never have been done unless the people on the street received benefits enough to pay for it. The people of the city have no more right to pay $144,000 for that work, or $58,000 for a sewer on Climax street, than you have to contribute $10,000 to Town Topics, and that's the kind of legislation I have been fighting. Now that it's done and confirmed by court, the only thing to do is to make a bond issue of about $1,000,000, take the water extension out of the old bond issue and make the levy 13 mills.

Yes, I know they say that's the way Morrow and I increase the bonded debt and decrease the millage.

DEATHS FROM PNEUMONIA.

Dread Disease Lays Low Two Dozen Persons During Past Week.

Measles Also Contribute.

The Pittsburgh mortuary report for the week ended Saturday, January 27, 1906, shows the total number of deaths to have been 148, an increase of 13 over the corresponding week of 1905, and an annual death rate of 20.64 per 1,000. Of the decedents 24 died of pneumonia, 11 of typhoid fever, six of tuberculosis, five of measles and four each of diphtheria and scarlet fever; 38 were under one year of age and two were over 80; 26 died in public institutions and 25 were coroner's cases; 137 were white and 11 black; 92 were single, 44 married, seven widows and five widowers.

During the week 111 new cases of measles, 17 of diphtheria, 21 of scarlet fever, 49 of typhoid fever were reported. The bureau of health yesterday reported 12 new cases of measles, 11 of typhoid fever, three of pneumonia and one each of diphtheria and scarlet fever.

FORMAL OPENING IS HELD.

Large Crowd Views the Exhibits of Builders Exchange League.

The formal opening of the hall of exhibits in connection with the Builders' Exchange league was held yesterday afternoon on the sixth floor of the Hetren building. The exhibit will be a permanent one to facilitate architects, contractors and prospective builders in inspecting the different forms of modern structural materials. A large number attended the opening of the exhibit, where arrangements had been made by the committee to inform the public what the league has accomplished and what its aim is toward keeping pace with the building progress in Pittsburgh.

Henry Hornbostel, head architect of the Carnegie Technical schools, delivered an address on "Modern Structure." The hall of exhibits contains 82 different exhibits, valued approximately at $150,000.

DeWolf Hopper Coming.

DeWolf Hopper, the foremost of American singing comedians, will be the star attraction at the Belasco theater next week in the new comic opera, "Happyland," by Reginald DeKoven and Frederic Ranken. This piece ran for the first half of the present season at the Lyric theater, New York city, and was pronounced by both the critics and the public the supreme musical success of the year with an unanimity that was really remarkable.

Will Speak of Interior Russia.

Frank R. Roberson will deliver a lecture tonight in Carnegie Music hall, Allegheny, it being one of the regular attractions in the members' course of the Young Men's Christian association. His subject will be "Interior Russia," and the lecture will be illustrated.

PROPERTY OWNERS PLAN TO IMPROVE LIBERTY AVENUE

Director Bigelow Will Have Ordinance Introduced Calling for Widening of Sidewalks and Removal of the Railroad Tracks.

Unless present plans fail to materialize Pittsburgh will, in April, have in Liberty avenue a thoroughfare that will be of untold value to the business section of the city. At a conference yesterday between Director Bigelow of the department of public works and T. J. Keenan, representing the largest property holders of Liberty avenue, a proposition was agreed upon that will result in widening the sidewalk four feet and the removal of the Pennsylvania railroad track, giving it an additional roadway of at least five feet on each side of the street car tracks, making it the widest business street in the city. These improvements will be made from Eleventh street to Water, and the thoroughfare will be paved with asphalt the entire way.

Director Bigelow has agreed to introduce an ordinance at the next meeting of councils which will authorize this work being done, and if that measure passes the work is expected to be started not later than April 1. With the erection of a number of large buildings, Liberty avenue will develop into the principal business thoroughfare of the city.

The proposition as submitted to Director Bigelow by Mr. Keenan will divide the street as follows: Sidewalks, 32 feet; roadway, 81 feet; street car tracks, with clearance, 17 feet. This will allow a 16-foot sidewalk on each side. The removal of the Pennsylvania railroad tracks will allow a 15½-foot roadway on each side of the street car tracks, which will allow the passage of two vehicles, something heretofore impossible. The advantages of this are readily seen in relieving the vehicle congestion of the narrower intersecting streets.

While nothing is assured as yet, it is said a movement is now on foot to cut Tenth street through to New Grant street.

The proposition as accepted yesterday is not the one originally presented to Director Bigelow by the property holders. They had hoped to have the sidewalks made several feet wider, but the director convinced them that a 16-foot walk would be wide enough, and they finally agreed to his plans.

SECRETARY BONAPARTE PRESENTS A HAZING BILL

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—The submission by Secretary Bonaparte of an anti-hazing bill and testimony by Rear Admiral Sands, superintendent of the Naval academy as to discipline at Annapolis featured today's meeting of the house committee on naval affairs. Admiral Sands surprised many of the members of the committee by stating frankly that no investigation had been made at Annapolis to determine whether officers have had knowledge of the violations of the anti-hazing law which went unpunished. He furthermore made it clear that he did not think such an inquiry necessary or desirable.

In the opinion of Admiral Sands, he and the secretary of the navy should still be allowed to exercise their discretion in punishing hazing. He favored the system of graduated punishment suggested to the committee by Secretary Bonaparte. Admiral Sands contended that the discipline at Annapolis was excellent. He said he had no doubt it was quite equal to that at West Point.

Secretary Bonaparte's bill provides for the repeal of the section of the present act which requires the superintendent of the academy to call a court-martial to investigate all charges of hazing, and which makes summary dismissal the punishment for all midshipmen found guilty of hazing. Under the bill the secretary of the navy is authorized to dismiss midshipmen.

Sore Throat Wisdom

If every mother could realize the real danger that lurks behind every case of sore throat, she wouldn't rest until she had effected a cure every time a child has it.

Your family physician will verify the statement that it is a positive fact that every child with sore throat is in immediate danger of contracting Croup, Quinsy, Tonsilitis or Diphtheria, and is not removed from that danger until the throat is cured. Think of it!

Liniments or outward application of medicines do not and cannot cure the ailment, though they may offer temporary relief. Neither can you cure sore throat with a cough syrup or a cold cure.

To cure, you must get at the seat of the disease, removing the cause. Nothing does that so quickly, safely and surely as TONSILINE. A single dose of TONSILINE taken upon the first appearance of sore throat may save long weeks of sickness, great expense, worry, even death. TONSILINE is the stitch in time.

Use a little sore throat wisdom and buy a bottle of TONSILINE today. You may need it tomorrow.

TONSILINE is the standard sore throat remedy—best known and most effective and most used. Look for the long necked fellow on the 25 or 50 cent sized bottle when you go to the drug store to get it.

BOYS' ESCAPADE IS MAKING BEAVER COLLEGE POPULAR

Since It Has Become Known How the Girl Students Are Entertained 10 Young Misses Are Determined to Live in Dormitory.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BEAVER, PA., Jan. 25.—President Arthur Staples of Beaver college, announced today that 10 new girl students would enter the college dormitory next Tuesday, the beginning of the second semester. This coming immediately after the sensation produced by the town boys breaking into the college to play pranks and of midnight lunches having been furnished the girls previously by the boys, indicates that the advertising thus given the college has benefited rather than hurt the institution.

Dr. Staples today declared that he would not withdraw the charges he has entered against six boys and that they will have to appear for a hearing before Justice John B. Young tomorrow evening. The warrant were read to the boys last night and this morning. As all promised to appear for the hearing they were not taken into custody. The boys are William Reed, son of J. F. Reed; Joseph and Paul West, sons of J. A. West of Westview; Jesse Hineman, son of ex-County Commissioner Hineman; William Fisher, son of Charles Fisher of Groveland, and Eugene Brooks, son of D. P. Brooks.

The boys are charged with entering the college building at night with intent to do damage and disturb the school. The maximum sentence is six months to jail and $100 fine. Attorneys J. F. Reed and J. L. Holmes will represent the boys. Several members of the directorate of the college are said to be in favor of withdrawing the charges.

EXPLODING LAMP BURNS YOUNG WOMAN TO DEATH

Her Two Sisters, Their Father and a Friend Suffer Serious Injury in Effort to Save Her.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

INDIANA, PA., Jan. 25.—In a lamp explosion last night at the home of James A. Spence, five miles from here, one girl was burned to death, another will die and three other persons were seriously injured. Mabel Spence, aged 16, died from inhaling the flames, and her sister, Pearl, aged 18, who had all her clothing burned off, cannot recover. The others injured are Florence Spence, aged 10; John A. Spence, father of the girls, and Michael Moore, whose hand was so badly burned it may have to be amputated.

Moore, Spence and the latter's three daughters were in one room when the flame of an oil lamp began to flicker. Pearl and Mabel stepped forward at the same moment to blow it out. As Mabel was bending over the lamp it exploded, showering both girls with blazing oil. They ran screaming from the room, followed by the father and Moore, who tried to extinguish the flames that enveloped the sisters. Both men were terribly burned.

The girls' clothing was practically burned off. There is no hope of saving Pearl's life. Some of the burning oil struck the shoulder of Florence Spence's dress and she was painfully turned. The room was set afire and all the furniture was destroyed. The house was saved by hard work.

Lewis at West Farmington a week ago. Artman holds to his original story. He was employed by Lewis and was sleeping upstairs, he claims, when Lewis was killed with a flatiron.

It was decided by Coroner Scoville last night to put Artman through the "sweating" process early in the morning. Artman was allowed to go to bed at 10:30 o'clock and was aroused at 1 o'clock and brought before the officers. He was questioned for over three hours, but never flinched. After he had eaten his breakfast he was again subjected to examination, but the result was as before.

A. M. JENKINSON TALKS TO VOTERS

GUTHRIE SUPPORTERS AT ODDS

A. M. Jenkinson last night addressed the Republican voters of the Twenty-sixth ward, who met in the basement of the Humboldt school. The crowd was enthusiastic and Mr. Jenkinson was received with cheers.

The Republican candidate for mayor told his hearers that the stories that he is backed by a coterie of capitalists, who, in case he should be elected, would demand franchises or any other business advantage from him, were untrue. He said he would give the affairs of the office of mayor the same close attention he had always given his private interests.

John Bradley presided over the meeting. Speeches were made by G. L. Sutter, U. G. Vogan and William Rose.

In some of the wards the Democrats are quarreling among themselves and have brought the party bosses into the trouble; in other wards the Citizens refuse to amalgamate with the Democrats, the Democrats won't play with the Civics and the latter threaten to go it alone.

Mr. Guthrie attended the opening of the Civic headquarters, Center and Highland avenues, last night. He made a speech, was enthusiastically received, and then took in the Citizens headquarters. At the Democratic headquarters the ward chairman, Martin F. Howley, and the secretary, C. H. Combs, and 50 others of the faithful, were assembled, thinking, of course, that the Democratic candidate would not fail to visit his own people. Howley, Combs and the rest waited patiently, but Mr. Guthrie did not appear, and when it was learned that he had gone home the lights were turned out and the Democrats at headquarters left. There is much dissatisfaction at Mr. Guthrie's failure to realize that the Democratic voters in the ward may be of importance in a close contest.

Peculiar Mix in Twentieth Ward.

The situation is peculiar in the Twentieth ward. The Democrats have a councilmanic ticket consisting of Howley, Thomas M. Hughes and J. C. Flynn. This ticket was not satisfactory to the Democratic executive committee, and so it would not recognize the nominees, acting under a rule adopted by the city committee only the other night, but filed as the regular Democratic ticket certificates nominating George H. Stengel, C. W. Houston and C. W. Helmold, the last-named a Bigelow councilman. The Citizens in turn have nominated Helmold, A. G. Roenigk and G. W. Hammer, the last two also Bigelow councilmen. The Civic party, which, in turn is expected to fuse with the Democrats and Citizens, is not satisfied with the Citizens ticket, the Howley Democratic or the Brennen Democratic ticket, and it may name candidates of its own, accepting Stengel and Houston and rejecting Helmold.

The Civics charge that Howley is indifferent to the success of his own nominees, and is conspiring to have them and the other Democratic ticket thrown out by the courts, so that the Citizens nominees may have a better chance for election. Howley admits that he is going into court. Yesterday his ward committee retained the law firm of O'Brien & Ashley to defend the ticket and contest the validity of the regular Democratic ticket. It is charged that Brennen's committee not only passed upon the Howley ticket and threw it out, but supplanted it with nominees never mentioned at Democratic suggestion meeting.

Will Make Stack Alderman.

In the Thirty-fifth ward the situation is really funny. On Tuesday night Brennen's executive committee was considering the ticket named by the Democrats of that ward, the nominees being Michael Stack and John M. Tighe.

"Why, Mike," said Brennen to Stack, while the executive committee was considering the ticket, "you don't want to be councilman, you ought to be alderman," and before Stack could protest Brennen had substituted S. F. Forse's name for Stack as a councilmanic caindidate, and put Stack on as the aldermanic nominee. Stack refuses to run for alderman and yesterday he sent Brennen a letter saying he would support the Republican ward ticket.

The Civic party has its own troubles. On the morning of the day it filed its application for its party title in the wards it was found that men from four wards had got into the prothonotary's office before the hour for the regular opening and filed papers for the title "Civic party," so that for those wards the title filed by the regular Civics is of later filing. The Civics charge Republicans with being responsible for this trick, but nothing was known about it in advance at the Republican city headquarters, Chairman Leslie being much surprised when he heard of it.

Will Fight in the Courts.

The Soffels are responsible for the first Civic party in the Thirty-second ward, and the Civics charge that Dr. E. R. Walters got up the other bogus title in the Twentieth. However, the Civics are going to fight in the courts. They claim that their action in patenting the name "Civic" the day before for the entire city shows their good faith and will preserve them the party rights in the four wards mentioned.

Alderman S. J. Toole has retained John Marron to contest William J. Brennen's right to knock John F. Klein off the Democratic ticket in the First ward and substitute that of Frank McCann. Toole says Brennen would not accept Klein because Klein is also on the Republican ticket, whereas Brennen has approved nominees in the Seventh, Eighth and Thirtieth and other wards who are running on the ticket headed by Jenkinson.

Chairman O'Hanlon, of the No Water Meter party, said yesterday that he has already secured 4,000 signatures to the papers nominating A. M. Jenkinson as the party's candidate for mayor. The people are desirous of signing the papers, O'Hanlon says, and yesterday two workingmen with dinner pails in their hands came to his house and demanded that they be allowed to sign. They approve of the party's stand for the people's right to use city water as free as air for a limited, specific price.

At the meeting of the executive committee held at Democratic headquarters plans for pushing the candidacy of Mr. Guthrie were gone over and a committee of three was appointed to confer with committees on meetings and speakers appointed by the various Civic and Citizens organizations, for the purpose of adopting a plan to work in unison in the matter of selecting places of meetings and speakers. The committee appointed consists of S. J. Graham, John J. McKelvey and John F. O'Toole.

George W. Guthrie Explains.

George W. Guthrie made a speech at the opening of the Civic party's headquarters for the Nineteenth and Twentieth wards last night. He denied any report that he was a party to the deal by which the Grant boulevard suits were abandoned in order to suppress testimony affecting politicians. He said the Grant boulevard ordinance passed councils through the influence of M. G. Leslie, the Republican city chairman, in the common branch, and of John Upperman in the select council. He himself, with A. Leo Weil and Harvey Childs, Jr., had fought the traction company until it finally said it had abandoned the project.

D. E. Ferguson presided over the meeting. Mr. Guthrie spent two hours at the headquarters shaking hands with the people who thronged the rooms.

Glass and Pottery Men in Club.

Seventy-five buyers, managers, salesmen and officials identified with the glass and pottery interests of this section and the middle west, gathered in the banquet hall of the Monongahela house last night and perfected the organization of the Western Glass and Pottery Association of Pittsburgh, the purpose of which will be to encourage social relations and mutual benefits. The organization is to be incorporated.

BISHOPS DEDICATE NEW PARISH HOUSE

New Buildings of Trinity Episcopal Church Are Consecrated With Impressive Services.

The new chapel and parish house of Trinity Episcopal church, Sixth avenue, were dedicated yesterday afternoon with impressive services, conducted by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Cortlandt Whitehead, D. D., of the Pittsburgh diocese, assisted by the Rt. Rev. Bishop John Scarborough, D. D., of the New Jersey diocese; the Rev. J. A. Kieffer of Bradford, Pa., and the Rev. Dr. A. W. Arundel, rector of Trinity parish. About 200 parishioners attended the services.

The services opened with a processional in which the clergy, in their robes of office, and choir boys, participated. The dedicatory ceremony of the church was then carried out, after which Bishop Whitehead delivered an address. He commended Dr. Arundel for his success in achieving the erection of the new buildings, and spoke of the possibilities the new parish house offered along the lines of institutional work. Bishop Scarborough told of his personal recollection of the early history of the parish, and drew comparisons with present day history. A reception was held last night which was attended by several hundred visitors, during which a musical program was rendered by a full orchestra.

During the morning Bishop Whitehead's 24th anniversary as bishop of the diocese was celebrated in the church. Bishop Scarborough also assisted in this service, as did Dr. Arundel and the Revs. L. T. Cole, T. J. Danner and William Speer. Bishop Scarborough officiated at the consecration, and preached a sermon eulogistic of the work of Bishop Whitehead.

SETON CONVICTED.

Man Charged With Norfolk & Western Forgeries Guilty of Previous Attempt at Fraud.

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—C. Augustus Seton, tried on a charge of larceny of $6,800 from the Houston, Galveston & Interurban Railroad Company of Texas, in floating about $3,000,000 worth of bonds, was convicted today and remanded to await sentence. Seton declared if he had succeeded in financing the road he would have been worth $150,000 outside of 2½ per cent he would have been entitled to in the matter of the construction expenses.

Seton, while on bail to answer for this charge, was arrested on a charge of having engineered the Norfolk & Western bond forgeries.

"The Homeless 26" to Give Dance.

The "Homeless 26" has arranged to give a reception and dance at Thuma's dancing academy, Fifth avenue, this evening. A large turnout of the members and their friends is anticipated.

WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU.

Few People Realize the Importance of Good Digestion Until It is Lost.

Many people suffer from dyspepsia and do not know it. They feel mean, out of sorts, peevish, do not sleep well, do not have the inclination and energy for physical or mental work they once had, but at the same time do not feel any particular pain or distress in the stomach. Yet all this is the result of poor digestion, an insidious form of Dyspepsia which can only be cured by a remedy specially intended to cure it and make the digestive organs act naturally, and properly digest the food eaten. Bitters, after dinner pills and nerve tonics will never help the trouble; they don't reach it. The new medical discovery does. It is called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is a specific for dyspepsia and indigestion. It cures because it thoroughly digests all wholesome food taken into the stomach, whether the stomach is in good working order or not.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by digesting the food, instead of making the worn out stomach do all the work, gives it a much needed rest and a cure of dyspepsia is the natural result.

When you are nervous, run down and sleepless, don't make the common mistake of supposing your nervous system needs treatment and fill your stomach with powerful nerve tonics which make you feel good for a little while, only to fall back farther than ever.

Your nerves are all right, but they are starved, they want food.

Nourish them with wholesome every-day food and plenty of it, well digested, and you can laugh at nerve tonics and medicine.

But the nerves will not be nourished from a weak, abused stomach, but when the digestion has been made perfect by the use of this remedy all nervous symptoms disappear.

Who ever heard of a man or woman blessed with a vigorous digestion and good appetite being troubled with their nerves?

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will certainly set your stomach and digestive organs right; they can't help but do it because they nourish the body by digesting the food eaten and rest the stomach.

You get nourishment and rest at one and the same time, and that is all the worn-out dyspeptic needs to build him up and give new life to every organ and an added zest to every pleasure.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a godsend to the army of men and women with weak stomachs and nerves and justly merits the claim of being one of the most worthy medical discoveries of the time.

IN PERIL OF HIS LIFE

BY EMILE GABORIAU

The excitement became intense, and eager questions were exchanged as to the possible whereabout of the individual in question. For many years he had been well known to everybody present. There was not one among them who had not given him a piece of bread or a bowl of soup when he was hungry; not one of them who had ever refused him a night's rest on the straw in his barn, when it was raining or freezing, and the poor fellow wanted a shelter. For Cocoleu was one of those unfortunate beings who labor under a grievous physical or moral deformity.

Some 20 years previously a wealthy land owner of Brechy had sent to the nearest town for a half-a-dozen painters, who remained painting and decorating his newly-built house during well-nigh the entire summer. One of these men seduced a girl of the neighborhood, whom he bewitched by his long white blouse, his handsome brown mustache, his good spirits, gay songs and flattering speeches. But, when the work was done, the tempter departed with the others, without thinking any more of the poor girl than of the last cigar he had smoked. And yet she was expecting a child. When she could no longer conceal her condition she was turned out of the house in which she was employed; and her parents, scarcely able to support themselves, drove her away without mercy. Overcome with grief, shame and remorse, poor Colette wandered from farm to farm, begging her bread, insulted, laughed at, beaten even at times. Thus it came about, that in a dark wood, one dismal winter evening, she gave life to a little boy. No one ever understood how mother and child managed to survive. Still both lived; and for many a year they were seen in and around Sauveterre, clad in rags and living upon the scanty generosity of the peasants.

At length the mother died, unsuccored as she had lived. Her body was found one morning in a ditch by the wayside.

The child remained alone. He was then eight years old, and both strong and tall for his age. A farmer took pity on him, and led him home. But the little wretch was not fit for anything; he could not even keep his master's cows. During his mother's lifetime, his silence, his wild looks, and his savage appearance, had been attributed to his wretched mode of life. But now it was found out that his intellect had never been aroused. He was an idiot, and, besides, subject to one of those terrible nervous affections which at times shake the whole body, and disfigure the face by the violence of uncontrollable convulsions. He was not a deaf-mute; but he could only stammer with intense difficulty a few disjointed syllables. Sometimes the country people would say to him—"Tell us your name and you shall have a sou."

But it took him five minutes' hard work and a thousand painful contortions to articulate his mother's name. "Co-co-colette." Hence came his name, Cocoleu. When it had been ascertained that he was utterly unable to do anything, people ceased to interest themselves in his behalf. In consequence, he was abandoned to his former vagabond life.

It was about this time that Dr. Seignebos met him one day on the high road. This excellent man had, among other extraordinary notions, the conviction that idiocy is nothing more than a defective state of the brains, which may be remedied by the administration of certain well-known substances, such as phosphorus, for instance. He lost no time in seizing upon this admirable opportunity to test his theory. Cocoleu was sent for and installed in his house. He subjected him to a treatment which he kept secret; and only a local druggist, who was also well known for his extraordinary notions, knew exactly what happened. At the end of 18 months, Cocoleu had lost flesh considerably; he talked, perhaps, a little more fluently; but his intellect had not been perceptibly improved. Dr. Seignebos was discouraged. He made up a parcel of things which he had given to his patient, put it into his hands, pushed him out of his door, and told him never to come back again. The doctor had rendered Cocoleu a sad service. The poor idiot was no longer accustomed to privation; he had forgotten how to beg his way from door to door; and he would surely have perished if his good fortune had not led him to the Chateau of Valpinson.

The Count de Claudieuse and his wife were touched by his wretchedness, and determined to take charge of him. They gave him a room and a bed in one of the farm buildings; but they could never induce him to stay there. He was by nature a vagabond, and could not control his vagabond instincts. At winter time the frost and snow kept him indoors for a little while; but, as soon as the first leaves came out, he went wandering again through forest and field, remaining absent often for weeks together. At last, however, some instinct seemed aroused in him, resembling that of a domesticated animal. His attachment to the countess was like that of a dog down to the tears and cries with which he greeted her whenever they met. Often, when she went out, he would accompany her, running and frolicking just like a dog. He was also very fond of the little girls, and seemed to resent being kept away from them as he was at times; for people were afraid his nervous attacks might affect the children. With time he had also become capable of performing some simple services. He could be intrusted with easy messages, water the flowers, summon a servant, or even carry a letter to the postoffice at Brechy. His progress in this respect was so marked that some of the more cunning peasants began to suspect that Cocoleu was not so "innocent," after all, as he looked, and that he was cleverly playing the fool in order to enjoy life easily.

Such was the individual who it was asserted knew something of the cause of the catastrophe which had visited Valpinson and its owners. "We have him at last," cried several voices suddenly. "Here he is; here he is!" The crowd made way promptly; and almost immediately a young man appeared, led or pushed forward by several persons. Cocoleu's clothes, all in disorder, showed clearly that he had opposed a stout resistance to his captors. He was a youth of about 18, very tall, quite beardless, excessively thin, and so loosely jointed, that he looked like a hunchback. A mass of reddish hair fell over his low, retreating forehead. His small eyes, his enormous mouth bristling with sharp teeth, his broad flat nose and immense ears gave him a strange, hideous, brutish air.

"What must we do with him?" asked the peasants of the mayor.

"Take him before the magistrate, my friends," replied M. Seneschal, "down there in that cottage, where you carried the count."

"And we'll make him talk," threatened his captors. "Come! Go on, quick!"

CHAPTER IV.

Both M. Galpin-Daveline and the doctor seemingly considered that professional dignity required them to retain an air of perfect indifference. Hence they did not evince the least apparent curiosity as to what was going on out of doors. Dr. Seignebos quietly resumed his operation; and, as coolly as if he had been in his own rooms at home, proceeded to wash the sponge which he had just used, and to wipe his instruments. The magistrate, on the other hand, stood in the center of the room, his arms crossed, and his eyes apparently fixed upon the infinite. It may be he was thinking of his star, which had at last brought him a famous criminal case, such as he had ardently longed for many a year.

The Count de Claudieuse, however, was very far from sharing this reserve. He tossed about on his bed; and as soon as the mayor and M. Daubigeon reappeared, looking quite upset, he exclaimed:—"What does that uproar mean?"

Then when he had heard of the calamity, he added: "Great God! And I was complaining of my losses. That is a real misfortune. Poor fellows! Bolton was hardly 30 years old; Guillebault, a father of a family, will leave five children quite penniless."

The countess heard these last words. "As long as we have a mouthful of bread," she said, in a voice full of deep emotion, "neither Bolton's mother, nor Guillebault's children, shall ever know what want is."

She had not time to speak further, for at that moment the peasants crowded into the room, pushing the prisoner before them. "Where is the investigating magistrate?" they asked. "Here is a witness!"

"What, Cocoleu!" exclaimed the count. "Yes, he knows something; he said so himself. We want him to tell it to the magistrate. We want the incendiary to be caught."

Dr. Seignebos had frowned fiercely. He execrated Cocoleu, whose sight recalled to him that great experimental failure which the good people of Sauveterre were not likely soon to forget. "You do not really mean to examine him?" he asked turning to M. Galpin-Daveline.

"Why not?" answered the magistrate, dryly.

"Because he is an imbecile, sir—an idiot. Because he cannot possibly understand your questions, or the importance of his answers."

"He may give us a valuable hint, nevertheless."

"He? A man who has no sense? You don't really think so. The law cannot attach any importance to the evidence of a fool."

M. Galpin barely his impatience by an increase of stiffness, as he replied—"I know my duty, sir."

"And I," replied the physician—"I also know what I have to do. You have summoned me to assist you in this investigation. I obey; and I declare officially, that the mental condition of this unfortunate man makes his evidence utterly worthless. I appeal to the public prosecutor."

He had hoped for a word of encouragement from M. Daubigeon; but nothing came. Accordingly Dr. Seignebos continued: "Take care, sir, or you may get yourself into trouble. What would you do if this poor fellow should make a formal charge against any one? Could you attach any weight to his word?"

One of the peasants who were listening with open mouths, hereupon exclaimed—"Oh! Cocoleu is not so innocent as he looks."

"He can say very well what he wants to say, the scamp!" added another.

"At all events, I am indebted to him for the life of my children," said the count, gently. "He thought of them when I was unconscious, and when no one else remembered them. Come, Cocoleu, come nearer, my friend, don't be afraid; there is no one here to hurt you."

There was need for the count to use such words; for Cocoleu was thoroughly terrified by the brutal treatment he had experienced and was trembling in all his limbs. "I am—not—a—afraid," he stammered out.

"Once more I protest," said the physician. He had found out that he was alone in his opinion. Indeed, the Count de Claudieuse came to his assistance, saying—"I really think it might be dangerous to question Cocoleu."

But the magistrate was master of the situation, fully conscious of all the powers conferred upon him by the law. "I must beg, gentlemen," he said in a tone which did not allow of any reply—"I must beg to be permitted to act in my own way." And then sitting down, he asked Cocoleu—"Come, my boy, listen to me, and try to understand what I say. Do you know what has happened at Valpinson?"

"Fire," replied the idiot.

"Yes, my friend, fire, which burns down the house of your benefactor—fire, which has killed two good men. But that is not all; they have tried to murder the count. Do you see him there in his bed, wounded and covered with blood? Do you see the countess, how she suffers?"

Did Cocoleu understand? At all events his distorted features betrayed nothing of what might be going on within him.

M. Galpin-Daveline overhead these ejaculations, and angrily remarked—"Sir, do not force me to remind you that I have, not far from here, men whose duty it is to see that my authority is respected." Then turning again to the poor idiot, he went on,—"All these misfortunes are the work of a vile incendiary. You hate him, don't you? you detest him, the rascal!"

"Yes," said Cocoleu.

Steal Money and Diamond.

Burglars entered the home of John F. Zugschwert, a jeweler, of Modern and Reamer streets, Rosslyn heights, near Carnegie, early yesterday morning, securing money and jewels. A diamond stud valued at $225 was taken from a shirt front, in addition to about $40.

THE GRANT BOULEVARD DEAL HELD UP

Noes—Bailey, Barr, Bergmann, Brand, Collins, Flaherty, Girdwood, Johns, Martin, Milby, Morin, McKnight, Gray 1-7, Dietrich 1-7—13 2-7.

The Brand resolution to investigate the boulevard scandal, including the original grant of the franchise to Murry A. Verner and his associates two years ago, and the recent stoppage of the suit in the United States court, was similar to the one introduced by Dr. E. R. Walters and defeated in select council. It was this resolution that George W. Guthrie said he would ask his friends to support.

Guthrie Did Not Deliver Goods.

The vote to break up the meeting last night to prevent the adoption of the resolution plainly shows that Mr. Guthrie's friends had either not been asked by Mr. Guthrie to support the resolution or had ignored his requests.

In presenting the resolution Mr. Brand said:

"This matter has reached the point where the suit in the United States court should be pushed and the court determine whether the railway in the boulevard should or should not be built. It has been charged in the suit brought by the Voters' Civic league that corrupt means were used to pass this ordinance in councils, and this has brought the matter to the point where somebody should be declared innocent or guilty."

"If councils are innocent, the public should know it and this stigma be removed from them. If the councils are guilty, then the public should know it and the guilty punished. If the charges made by the Voters' Civic league are not true, then we should make them eat crow.

Fear Convict Stripes.

"I understand that somebody is staring the gray walls and iron bars of prison in the face, and that there is $300,000 in this deal for somebody. If this resolution is adopted and an investigating committee appointed, I will produce the evidence. Vote for this investigation if you are innocent. If you are guilty shield yourselves by voting against it."

Mr. Roenigk said the suit of the Voters' Civic league had not been brought to show fraud. That was only an incident in the suit.

The league, he said, did not sue for fraud, but for the repossession of the boulevard. He said he was willing, however, that the investigation should be made and councils given a chance to clear themselves.

Samuel Shenkan moved to lay the Brand resolution on the table. This was defeated by a vote of 19 ayes to 24 2-7 noes. Then Richard McNally, another Bigelow member, moved to indefinitely postpone action on the resolution. This motion was also lost by a vote of 19 ayes to 23 2-7 noes.

Put Them All on Record.

On these two motions Gibbon, Kohne and Semmelrock, Republicans, voted in the affirmative. On every motion Mr. Brand demanded a roll call to put the members on record.

Finding themselves unable to kill the resolution outright, the next move of the administration, at the suggestion of Director Bigelow, was to break up the meeting. Richard McNally offered the motion to adjourn and grabbed his hat and overcoat. Other Bigelow members followed his example, and there was shuffling and confusion on the floor, the intention being apparently to prevent the clerk from calling the roll. Mr. Brand insisted upon a roll call, and McNally's motion to adjourn was carried by a vote of 26 ayes to 18 2-7 noes. This was the test vote on the resolution and stood as follows:

Ayes—Barr, Barton, Bole, Bonini, Bright, Collins, Cronmiller, Dangler, Frankel, Gibbon, Hughes, Jones, Kohne, Lauth, Maslowski, Mathews, McKelvey, McNally, Pfannkuch, Porter, Semmelrock, Shenkan, Taylor, Wallace, Walls—26.

Noes—Bailey, Bergman, Beckstoce, Brand, Flaherty, Girdwood, Hammer, Helmold, Johns, Kalchthaler, Lewis, Martin, Milby, Morin, McKnight, O'Brien, Roenigs, Zeuger, Gray 1-7, Dietrich 1-7—18 2-7.

Desertions on Both Sides.

The Republicans who voted with the Bigelow members to break up the meeting were: Barr, Barton, Cronmiller, Gibbon, Kohne and Semmelrock. The Citizens who voted with the Republicans to defeat adjournment were: Beckstoce, Flaherty, Hammer, Helmold, Kalchthaler, O'Brien, Roenigk and Zeuger.

The ordinance granting a light franchise on the South Side to the South Side Electric Manufacturing Company was passed finally by a vote of 41 2-7 votes to four, the four negative votes being cast by Hammer, Helmold and Roenigk of the Twentieth ward and by J. J. Hughes of the Fifth ward. The Twentieth ward members were practically the only opponents to the bill, as Mr. Hughes did not have a very clear understanding of the proceedings, making several speeches that at first amused and then annoyed the members.

The Twentieth ward members did not show up in very good form either on this ordinance or the boulevard ordinance. Their opposition to the South Side Electric Manufacturing Company was attributed to their close political and personal relations with Director James W. Clark, who is the treasurer of the Duquesne Light company, which obtained a franchise from councils over a year ago by a deal to secure at the same time the passage of grants for the Pittsburgh Railways company.

Duquesne Light Company's Position.

The Duquesne Light Company has never built or made a start to establish a plant and there have been reports that it was holding its franchise to sell out to the Philadelphia company. Through the medium of the Twentieth ward members, the Duquesne company undertook to keep out the South Side company as a competitor in the local field.

In protecting the interests of this company and his friend, Director Clark, Mr. Roenigk had to submit to the deadly parallel. Mr. Roenigk attempted to load down the ordinance with several amendments, one limiting the life of the franchise to 25 years.

"The member from the Twentieth ward on October 24, a year ago, voted for the ordinance of the Duquesne Light Company without such any time limit on the franchise, without any compensation to the city and against the amendment offered by our side to compel the company to furnish arc lights to the city at $75 each," said Mr. Brand. "This is the kind of a reformer that violated his pledges for two years and now, on the eve of an election, wishes to burden a new company of local men and capital, that wishes to give competition and binds itself in this ordinance to give cheaper light to the city."

Brand Produces the Proof.

Mr. Roenigk demanded proof of Mr. Brand's assertions, that he, Roenigk, had voted to give the Duquesne Light Company a franchise without compensation to the city or other conditions. Mr. Roenigk claimed that the compensation and other clauses had been stricken out in select council, but Mr. Brand showed by the records of councils, citing the pages 254 and 255, to show that the Republicans of common council had offered amendments to tax the Duquesne company 5 per cent of its gross receipts, to limit the franchise to 25 years and to fix a price for light to the city of $75, and that Mr. Roenigk had voted against every one of those amendments.

Mr. Brand mentioned the fact that the South Side company agreed in its ordinance to furnish light on the South Side to the city at $75 per arc light, while the city is now paying $96. Mr. Rapp said the city by granting this company a franchise, secures price of $75 for light on the South Side and the city would be able soon to secure the same price for the balance of the city. The ordinance was passed finally.

Mr. Roenigk attempted to have reconsidered the vote of the last meeting by which the Baltimore & Ohio railroad ordinance was rejected on first reading, but he received the support only of his colleagues from the Twentieth ward.

New Project for Old City Hall.

The burning of Old City hall has revived the project of local speculators, which was rejected by councils last year, to lease the market-house site for an office building. The proposition was made by Louis I. Currier, Charles Buchholt and A. F. Emmons.

The same parties last night presented another proposition to councils, this time, instead of offering the city the use of the first two stories of the proposed structure for a market house and an assembly hall, the sum of $5,100,000 in rentals for a ninety-nine-year lease is offered, this sum to be paid as follows: $250,000 during the first ten years; $400,000 during the second ten years; $450,000 during the third ten years; $500,000 during the fourth ten years; $550,000 during the fifth ten years, and $2,900,000 during the following forty-nine years, all payments to be made pro rata quarterly each year.

The lease is to begin March 1, 1906. The scheme makes no provision for a market house or any part of the building being used for public purposes, which is one of the conditions upon which the property was sold to the city. On this site is to be erected a steel fire-proof building not less than eighteen stories high, with arch-ways eighteen feet high over Market street and the extension of Diamond street.

By a vote of 35 2-7 common council voted to admit the five commissioners of former Sterrett township as members.

NIXON COMPLETES DEAL FOR THEATER CIRCUIT

Reproducing Pittsburgh Playhouse on Smaller Scale at New Castle, Reaching Other Towns.

Samuel F. Nixon, owner of the Nixon theater, announced last night that he had completed negotiations in the afternoon for the last two of a circuit of six theaters in towns near Pittsburgh, and that next season would afford the best in theatrical productions that the towns concerned have ever had the opportunity to enjoy at home. Mr. Nixon purchased property at New Castle for a theater, to be a reproduction of the Pittsburgh playhouse, only smaller. He also leased the Lyric theater at Beaver Falls. These two deals were closed yesterday afternoon. Mr. Nixon left last night for New York to consult with his architects.

The new Nixon theater at Washington, Pa., is now well under way. Mr. Nixon has leased the new playhouse recently built at East Liverpool, and has also secured leases on the St. Clair opera house at Greensburg and the principal theater at Connellsville.

"We shall have a fine circuit in these houses," said Mr. Nixon, "and shall book some of the best plays of the season after the run at the Nixon theater in Pittsburgh."

OFFICERS FIND STOLEN SHOES AND SOME WHISKY

Railroad Detectives Claim They Have Captured a Gang of Freight Car Thieves.

Baltimore & Ohio railroad detectives and officers connected with the county detective bureau are of the opinion they have captured the men who have been robbing freight cars in this vicinity. Last night Tapper Hileman and Henry Razinski, alias Scribo, were committed to jail on charges of larceny by Magistrate Kirby on information made by C. W. Baumgardner of the Baldimore & Ohio railroad. The men were arrested at Natrona, and in Hileman's house they found 50 pairs of shoes and 36 quarts of whisky which had been stolen.

The shoes were stolen from a store in Natrona and the whisky was taken from a freight car on a siding near that place. The capture resulted from an arrest made by Special Officer Robert Denniston last Tuesday. John Morzinski and John Kilgallon were arrested while trying to pawn a clock in Wylie avenue. The clock had been stolen from a freight car near Herrs Island and was identified as the property of the Walker Soap Company.

When Morzinski was taken to the central station two car seals were found on his person. It was later learned that Morzinski was a brakeman employed by the Baltimore & Ohio, and the railroad detectives say he and the members of his gang would break a freight car open, rob it, and then Morinskiz would place a new seal on the car. This was done to mislead the officers, who would think, when the seal on the car had not been broken, that the missing articles had never been loaded in the car.

When Morzinski's identity was learned the railroad detectives, with the county officers, found in their investigations that Hileman and Razinski were associated with Morzinski, and the county detectives searched Hileman's home and found the stolen articles. The men will have a hearing today. County Detective McMillen believes these men have been robbing stores throughout the county during the last few months.

Announce Removal Officially.

Official announcement was made yesterday that the executive operating and auditing departments of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, together with the sales department, will be removed from Chicago to Pittsburgh March 1. General Manager Charles Hart, who has had his offices there, will, in the future, have his headquarters in Pittsburgh.

WOULD TEACH SCHOOL BOYS TO SHOOT MILITARY RIFLES

Gen. Wingate of New York Heads a Committee to Promote Target Practice Among the Youth of the Various States.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—To teach the American school boy how to shoot a military rifle is the purpose of the international board for the promotion of rifle practice which has just concluded its annual session in this city. Gen. Oliver, assistant secretary of war, presided at the meeting, which was attended by a number of persons distinguished in the history of the National guard.

Gen. Wingate of New York, who has already had much success in his efforts to introduce the use of military rifle in the public schools of his own state, was appointed head of a committee to prepare a plan for the extension of the work to other states. It is proposed that the school boys shall take advantage of the act of congress authorizing the loan of arms by the government to rifle clubs and by organizing such clubs in the high schools secure military rifles which can be fitted easily for sub-calibre practice.

Gen. Roe, commanding the New York National guard, was appointed chairman of a committee to fix the time and place for the next regular annual rifle competition. The sentiment of the members of the board appeared to favor Sea Girt, N. J., and the middle of next August, but the committee will have discretionary power in the selection.

KILLEN APPLIES FOR FRANCHISE

HUGO KRUGER GETS JOB

Frank Killen does not want Sharon left off the baseball map this season and accordingly has applied for a franchise in the Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia league.

Killen last night said Sharon is too good a baseball town to remain idle, and he added that sufficient backing can be assured to have it enter the Pennsylvania-Ohio and West Virginia league. He will attend the meeting, which will take place at the Henry tomorrow morning, and present the claim of Sharon.

Killen said Sharon made some money last year, and he knows the enthusiasts desire the article of ball that will be furnished by the Pennsylvania-Ohio and West Virginia league. There will be nine live candidates for the eight franchises in the league now—Sharon, Steubenville and Marietta.

The committee, which will write the constitution will meet in The Gazette office this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. It will be prepared by Sharman Grim of Youngstown, G. Y. Travis of East Liverpol and Don McKim of Braddock.

Hugo Kruger of Cleveland, well known in Pittsburgh, will probably play the infield at Providence this coming season. He played third and second last year at Niles.

Mahaffey, the crack outfielder of the Wilkinsburg team, will probably sign with Punxsutawney.

Several of the Tri-State league teams are being spoken of as having agreed to play Sunday exhibition games at Fritz park, near Reading. The Altoona and Johnstown clubs will not agree to become parties to this arrangement.

The Johnstown team is about lined up for the season. The contracts of Charley Atherton and Joe Martin have not yet been received and there is room for another good pitcher. The Johnnies will have a stronger line-up than ever.

Only 100 free or season tickets will be permitted in the Tri-State league the coming season. A ticket must be deposited in a separate box for each admission not paid for, and if the number exceeds 100 they must be settled for at the percentage based on a full rate ticket.

At Altoona Saturday evening Manager Irwin will be a guest at a dinner to be tendered the members of the press and others by the Altoona club owners. It is probable that Manager Irwin will give out the names of a number of his players at that time.

Eddie Murphy and Martin Glendon, the prize battery of the Tri-State league, with 19 out of 20 games to their credit, have attached their names to Johnstown contracts.

Charley Atherton, who is expected to manage the Johnstown team next season, was operated upon at the Homeopathic hospital in Buffalo several days ago for an attack of appendicitis. He is improving rapidly and expects to be able to get in the game at the start of the season.

Kohley Miller of Reading, who was with Johnstown and Coatesville last season, has signed with Terre Haute of the Central league.

Outfielder Rapp of the Toronto Eastern league club is reported to have attached his name to an Altoona contract.

Mason Sandberg, the Lehighton boy formerly with Johnstown, Braddock and Williamsport, may sign with Greenville in the South Texas league.

Manager Arthur Irwin will visit Altoona in a few days after a two weeks' hunt for Class A players. He is said to have landed quite a string of them and in a few days will close several deals for trades with other clubs.

A Washington special last night said: The committee appointed last night to take steps looking to the completion of a baseball organization in Washington in order to place a team in the Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia league, decided today to apply for a charter and make the organization permanent. Capital will be $5,000 and the stock will be sold entirely in Washington. This, it is believed, will be better than a Pittsburg stock company. Pledges for nearly $1,000 of stock were received today.

WESTERN COACHES FAVOR THE FORWARD PASS

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—Coaches and managers of the "Big Nine" football teams today discussed recommendations for changes in the rules of the game which the west wishes made at the meeting of the American rules committee in New York on Saturday.

The gathering was secret, but it was learned that the discussion favored the forward pass in football. Regarding rough play, it seemed to be the unanimous opinion of those at the meeting that any player guilty of such work should be ruled out of the game at once, and that in case such a player is twice ruled out during the season the player be suspended for the entire year from the football field.

Coach A. A. Stagg of the University of Chicago, Dr. Williams of the University of Minnesota and James T. Lees of the University of Nebraska, after the meeting left for New York for Saturday's meeting.

HOT POLITICS IN AVALON.

Primaries Tomorrow Will Be Exciting. Charges of Unfair Tactics Are Being Made.

When the polls open for the Republican primary election in Avalon tomorrow afternoon it will be the signal for the start of a very interesting several hours. Not for some years has there been so much excitement among the voters and it is hard to tell what the result will be.

Last Saturday the Republican suggestion meeting was held, and the following suggestions were made: Burgess, S. H. Parker and John Stewart; tax collector, F. S. Kuhns and M. K. Miller; auditor, D. H. McLean; council, S. L. McQuigg, W. P. Heckman and W. J. Parker; school directors, C. M. Johnston, J. W. Lackey and J. W. West; judge of election, L. P. Stone, and inspector of election, W. F. Hunter.

This apparently was satisfactory to all until yesterday, when one of the candidates in sending out letters asking for support gave a list of names, saying they were indorsed by the Republican organization. This list omitted the names of M. K. Miller for tax collector, W. J. Parker for council, and J. W. West for school director. When the friends of these men learned of this move they were indignant and claimed it was a violation of all ethics of politics, especially as one of the members of the organization was said to be instrumental in preparing the circular. All of the omitted candidates are well and favorably known in the borough and they threaten to "tear things wide open" on Saturday afternoon. They claim that their names formally came before the suggestion meeting and that they are entitled to as much show as any other names on the ticket.

BERT WING EASY FOR FRANK MORGAN

An enthusiastic crowd of 1500 attended the East Pittsburg Athletic club's boxing exhibition in Turner hall last night, and saw Bert Wing of Cleveland whipped decisively, and Bob Herrera, brother of the famed Mexican Herrera, conqueror of Young Corbett, knocked out in jig time. Frank Morgan was billed to box six rounds at 142 pounds, but from the start Morgan showed superior agility and accuracy. He battered down Wing's defense and landed swings and jabs in quick succession, forcing his opponent around the ring until in the last minute he floored him with a stiff right swing to the joint of the jaw. The referee counted eight when the gong sounded, and Wing's seconds carried him to his corner. In the second round Morgan had it all his way, and Wing's almost helpless condition allowed him to land at will. Morgan rushed him all around the ring and knocked him down three times in quick succession with forceful swings to the jaw. Then Chief of Police C. C. Fay of East Pittsburgh stopped the bout, and the decision was given to Morgan.

There were three preliminaries. The first, between Frank Klause of East Pittsburgh and Dick Givens of Homestead, at 135 pounds, went four rounds with no decision. Klause showed up the better boxer.

Tom Lynch of East Pittsburgh and George Simcoe of East Pittsburgh clashed in the second at 115 pounds. This was a fast bout, with Lynch on the aggressive and landing the more blows. Simcoe came up strong in the last round and made a rally which made the honors so even that no decision was given.

Tim McGivern of Turtle Creek knocked Herrera out. The fighters weighed 125 pounds, and from the tap of the gong Herrera seemed dazed. He fought wildly and was no match in any sense for McGivern. McGivern kept rushing during the first round, and landed many hard blows. In the second Herrera was groggy, and Tim ripped in a haymaker to the heart with his right. Herrera fell heavily and was counted out.

AMONG THE BOXERS.

The proposed wrestling match between Harvey Parker and Mart Henderson is off. Both men had posted $25, and Parker last night received Henderson's forfeit, the latter being unable to live up to the agreement. Parker will wrestle Max Luthieg at Steubenville tonight, two out of three falls, at catchweight. Next week Parker and Beell will begin a week's theatrical stunt at Buffalo. While there every effort will be made to induce Farmer Burns to agree with a match with Beell. The latter will agree to any conditions proposed by Burns, except that the referee must be mutually agreed upon. Beell is willing to meet Burns on a mat, on rosin or on a cinder pile.

OPERATORS THROW DOWN GAUNTLET

Mine Owners Vote Not to Consider Wage Question Till the Miners Meet Conditions.

ELECT F. L. ROBBINS CHAIRMAN

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Jan. 25.—The central competitive field operators today voted in executive session that they would make no concessions to the miners. Operators from various fields contended that for trading purposes there should be a demand for a reduction of 12½ per cent, others favored the re-establishment of the wage scale of 1902, meaning a reduction of five cents the ton of the screen basing wage rate, which is now 85 cents the ton. There was half-hearted approval to these and other propositions, when President Francis L. Robbins of the Pittsburg Coal Company, who had been unanimously chosen chairman of the meeting, surrendered his gavel and said:

"The miners have, as we all know, made exorbitant demands. They are beyond reason. The operators should enter this joint conference with no counter wage proposition. We need only ask the miners to present their grounds for advancing such demands."

This plan was adopted. The operatotrs voted that they would not consider any wage agreement until the miners had met the following conditions:

That during the life of whatever agreement is made by this convention no state miners' organization shall secure legislation that will increase the cost of mining.

Demands of Operators.

That the Illinois miners, in conformity with this declaration, petition the legislature to repeal the shot-firers' law passed at the last session.

That stampede strikes be prohibited, but where such occur the miners must pay the loss to the operators.

That the interstate agreement be confined to the present four competitive states.

There was a spirited discussion in the joint conference over the proposal to admit other fields. In the heat of the argument, Operator Walter S. Bogle of Chicago pointed his finger at President John Mitchell of the miners and declared:

"Your organization would not exist but for the operators of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The check-off that we have been paying has been the life of your organization." Under the check-off arrangement the operators hold from the miners' pay their obligations to their union and turn the money over to the local treasurers.

The contention was for the admission of the fields of Kansas, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, Texas and Indian Territory.

President Robbins of the Pittsburgh Coal Company forcefully called attention to the remissness of the miners' organization in its failure to organize the nearer low wage eastern competitors of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and the eastern states, bring them up to a fairer competitive wage basis and into the joint movement.

DOMINICAN PRESIDENT ALREADY TIRED OF JOB

[Special Cable to The Gazette.]

(Copyright, 1906, by New York Herald Co.)

SANTIAGO, SANTO DOMINGO, Jan. 25.—Gen. Caceres' friends are surprised to learn that he objects to serving out President Morales' unexpired term and proposes to call an election so that a new president may be inaugurated on February 17, the Independence day of the republic, when the chamber of deputies always convenes.

Gen. Caceres is said to be anxious to resign the presidency in favor of Gen. Horacio Vasquez, who is with him, so that he may run for the presidency, although he has announced that he does not wish office again.

His brother, Gen. Leonte Vasquez, is eager for the office, and Gen. Tejera is also discussed. If Gen. Caceres insists on leaving he can name his immediate successor with prospects that a revolution will follow the change. There is no question that whoever takes the office will favor the treaty with the United States.

REQUESTED TO PREACH.

Allegheny Ministers Are Urged to Advocate Election of George B. Logan as Mayor.

The committee on churches of the Allegheny Good Government party yesterday mailed to every minister on the North Side a descriptive list of the more notorious disorderly houses in the "tenderloin" district, and a statement of the names of those persons arrested and convicted by the courts on the charge of extortion. The circular requests the ministers to preach on Sunday night simultaneously on good government, and urges them to advocate the election of George B. Logan as mayor.

It is said that in a few days 5,000 pictures of Mr. Logan will be exhibited in the windows of as many private dwellings in Allegheny. A meeting of the Good Government committee of the Eleventh ward was held last night, and a permanent organization was effected. The chairman is John W. Williams. Mr. Logan spent considerable time last night in the wards east of Federal street, in the district which is strong for Charles F. Kirzehler, the Republican candidate for mayor.

STONE QUITS THE FIGHT.

The Former Governor's Labors Against Greater Pittsburgh Are Now Ended.

Former Gov. Stone has quit the fight against Greater Pittsburgh and if the fight is continued by the Allegheny objectors it will be without his assistance, legally or otherwise. This announcement was made yesterday by the former governor's son, Stephen Stone, who appeared at Harrisburg in behalf of the annexing bill of the Merchants & Manufacturers' association, which provides a separate vote for Allegheny.

As the M. & M. bill, which his father and he drafted, has been dropped, Mr. Stone stated he was in favor of the chamber of commerce bill, drafted by D. T. Watson and George W. Guthrie.

Attorney W. C. Gill, chairman of the so-called "public defense" committee of Allegheny, said:

"The chamber of commerce bill contains the same fault we objected to in the former Cook bill. It denied the people of Allegheny a separate vote on the question of annexation. Because this is not given it is probable that a test of the constitutionality of the bill will be made promptly. A decision will not be reached on this matter until after the measure is passed by the legislature."

MEETING PROGRESS

Moroccan Delegates Provide Another Commission and German and French Delegates Have Conference.

ALGECIRAS, SPAIN, Jan. 25.—Spain at today's session of the Moroccan conference presented the draft of a convention providing for a better return of taxation in Morocco and also for the creation of new revenues. The conference expressed the opinion that nothing should be proposed for Morocco which may modify the basis of the present organization of that country or be in contradiction with the habits of the Moroccan people regarding land taxation.

Herr von Radowitz, head of the German mission, and M. Revoil, chief of the French delegation, had for the first time a long private meeting which was much commented upon. The meeting produced a distinct feeling of optimism

A DIFFERENCE IN LUNGS.

In the Edinburgh University three human lungs lie side by side. One is of an Eskimo and is snow white. In life, this would be ruddy with rich blood. Another is that of a coal-miner and is black. The other is of a town dweller and is a dirty slate gray, as are the lungs of most city residents. That's why consumption thrives in cities.

One reason why Scott's Emulsion does so much to keep down consumption is because it helps to keep the lungs clean and supplies them with rich, red blood. It makes the lungs germ-resisting. If the body is run down and health is at a low ebb Scott's Emulsion will build it up quickly and permanently.

MOTHER FINDS HER SON HANGING FROM BED POST

Andrew C. Wehner's Illness Drives Him to Suicide—Railroader Is Decapitated.

Andrew C. Wehner, aged 39, committed suicide yesterday at the home of his mother, 1110 Howard avenue, Allegheny, by hanging himself to a bedpost. He had been in ill health for sometime. Ten years ago he went to California, and while there suffered a stroke of paralysis which rendered him almost helpless. Last Christmas he returned home and told his mother he would some day kill himself. Wednesday night he went to his room and yesterday when he failed to come to his meals his mother went to the room and found him hanging to the bedpost.

Alexander Marle, aged 50, of 145 Orchard street, Schoenville, died at the McKees Rocks hospital yesterday from injuries received January 6, while at work in the plant of the Pressed Steel Car Company. He was struck by a crane chain.

A. J. Riley, a Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad brakeman, fell from a freight train at Otto station, near Glassport, early yesterday morning, and was instantly killed, his head and arm being cut off. His absence was not discovered by the train crew, and the body was found later by Officer William Hatfield of Glassport. He was 32 years old and lived at Webster.

James Henderson, aged 22, of Falls Creek, Clarion county, was killed at Midway, on the Pennsylvania railroad, early yesterday morning. He was a brakeman.

Charles Poehle died at the Municipal hospital last night from blood poisoning, sustained last Tuesday by cutting his hand on a crane at Sankey Bros.' brick works. He was first attended at the South Side hospital and was there advised to go to the Municipal hospital because contagion was feared. He was 27 years old and lived at 56 Gregory street.

LIBERALS MAKE GAINS.

Returns to Date Show Party Will Have 338 Seats—Balfour Will Not Be Opposed.

LONDON, Jan. 25.—Sir Edward Grey, the new foreign secretary, has been returned for Berwick-on-Tweed division of Northumberland by the largest majority he ever had. This is typical of the general result of yesterday's elections, which practically were an unbroken series of Liberal successes. The new house of commons already contains 18 Jews, with several constituencies to be heard from. This is a larger number than previously recorded.

Liberal gains include the defeat of Coningsby Disraeli in the Altrincham division of Cheshire, and the unseating of the Hon. J. Parker Smith for the Patrick division of Lanarkshire. Mr. Smith held the seat for 16 years. He is a member of the executive committee of the tariff reform league, and was private secretary to Joseph Chamberlain when the latter was secretary to the colonies.

Of the 50 candidates nominated by the labor representation committee 29 have been elected. It is understood that the Liberals will allow Mr. Balfour to be elected unopposed for the city of London, though a formal decision has been postponed until Monday.

EDWARDS AN APPLICANT.

Assistant District Attorney Asks Congressman Barchfeld to Support Him for Postmastership.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—(Special)—Candidates for appointment as postmaster at Pittsburgh are entering the field. Representative Barchfeld today received a letter from Albert J. Edwards, assistant district attorney at Pittsburgh, asking his support for Mr. Edwards for the appointment.

Representatives Barchfeld, Burke and Dalzell, all of whom are interested in the postmastership, since all three districts lie wholly or in part in the city limits, have agreed that the appointment is to be held in abeyance until the Greater Pittsburgh question is settled by the legislature.

THE LITTLE WIDOW.

"A little widow, a neighbor of mine, persuaded me to try Grape-Nuts when my stomach was so weak that it would not retain food of any other kind," writes a grateful woman from San Bernardino Co., Cal.

"I had been ill and confined to my bed with fever and nervous prostration for three long months after the birth of my second boy. We were in despair until the little widow's advice brought relief.

"I liked Grape-Nuts food from the beginning, and in an incredibly short time it gave me such strength that I was able to leave my bed and enjoy my three good meals a day. In 2 months my weight increased from 95 to 113 pounds, my nerves had steadied down and I felt ready for anything. My neighbors were amazed to see me gain so rapidly and still more so when they heard that Grape-Nuts alone had brought the change.

"My 4-year-old boy had eczema, very bad, last spring and lost his appetite entirely, which made him cross and peevish. I put him on a diet of Grape-Nuts, which he relished at once. He improved from the beginning, the eczema disappeared and now he is fat and rosy, with a delightfully soft, clear skin. The Grape-Nuts diet did it. I will willingly answer all inquiries." # BURNS' BIRTHDAY LASTS THREE DAYS

MANY GATHERINGS OF SCOTS

The one hundredth and forty-seventh anniversary of the birthday of Robert Burns, the plowman poet of Scotland, is celebrated for three days in Greater Pittsburgh this year. It was begun Wednesday evening by Clan MacPherson in Allegheny. Last night the Waverley society celebrated at the Monongahela house, Clan Cameron at Duquesne Garden, Clan McKinzie at Homestead and Clan McDonald at McKeesport. Tonight the celebration will be closed by the Scots of Braddock and the Turtle Creek valley, under the auspices of Clan Robertson of East Pittsburgh.

At the Monongahela house the 150 members of the Waverley society, after a reception, marched into the banquet hall, headed by the bagpiper, George Mackay. Before the famous dish, the haggis, was brought in, Chairman William Falconer called upon William Campbell to memorialize the late Arthur Kirk, whose office it was on former occasions to address the haggis. He did so and all arose to a silent toast. Then Robert Young, who had been chosen to address the haggis, preceded by the piper, marched before the dish into the center of the room, and after reciting Burn's "Great Chieftain o' the Puddin' Race," cut the haggis.

The largest celebration last night was held in the Duquesne Garden amphitheater. About 800 gathered for the concert which preceded the dance.

SOCIETY

Contributions to this department must bear the name and address of the writer to insure attention.

FROM Mrs. George A. Macbeth's luncheon yesterday the debutantes wended their ways to the home of Mrs. Robert Wilson Patterson, in Howe street, to be guests at the bridge which Mrs. Patterson was giving for Miss Helen Grayson Ayers, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Ayers, and a debutante of the winter, who made her formal debut at a large reception given by her mother early in the season. Mrs. Ayers, Mrs. Edward Blaine Scull and Mrs. Harry Palmer Pears assisted Mrs. Patterson during the afternoon. Enough guests were present to require the use of 10 tables, at which the prizes were won by Miss Harriet Weyman Balken, Miss Mary Whittier Shields, Miss Helen Willard Davis, Miss Florence Biggert, Miss Elizabeth Murray, Mrs. John McCormick, Miss Florence Davis, Miss Marion Guthrie, Miss Grace Aiken and Miss Ayers, the guest of honor. In addition to the debutante friends of the hostess and her guest of honor the guests included a number of recent brides and several of the older girls. The decorations were done in spring flowers and were dainty and charming in every particular. Clusters of yellow jonquils adorned both the library and the dining room which adjoins it. White narcissi and hyacinths were combined in the drawing room, and vases of red roses brightened the hall. The prizes awarded were dainty little bags filled with ribbons and bodkins.

Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated.

Mr. and Mrs. George Seiblck of South Fairmont avenue entertained with eight tables of six-hand euchre last evening in celebration of their wedding anniversary. From 3 until 6 o'clock in the afternoon Mrs. Seiblck and her two daughters, Mrs. Frank Kenworthy and Mrs. Frederick Hall Steele, received their friends and were assisted by Mrs. C. L. Flaccus, Mrs. C. R. Miller, Mrs. W. A. Elderkin, Mrs. C. H. Stolzenbaugh, Mrs. G. A. Vetter, Mrs. John Kenworthy, Mrs. R. C. McCain, Mrs. G. M. Paisley, Mrs. W. A. Clark, Miss Sara Harrison, Miss Stella Stolzenbaugh and Miss Mary Elderkin. Their home, where the reception was conducted, was beautifully decorated. The guests were welcomed in the drawing-room by Mrs. Seiblck and her daughters were handsomely gowned. Mrs. Kenworthy's gown was of white crepe meteor trimmed with duchesse lace and had touches of blue ribbon about the yoke and collar. Mrs. Steele wore a gown of white mousseline over pink and Mrs. Seiblck appeared in a creation of white crepe de chine and rose point lace.

School Girl's Luncheon.

Twenty-two little school girls will be entertained at luncheon tomorrow by Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, at her home in Morewood avenue, Shadyside. Miss Sarah Margarte Rowe, the eldest daughter of the hostess, will be guest of honor, and covers will also be laid for Miss Gretchen Schoonmaker, Miss Alexina Bido, Miss Lucy Kay, Miss Elizabeth Totten, Miss Alice Orr, Miss Jane Laxear, Miss Mary Snyder, Miss Elizabeth Stevenson, Miss Alice Hammond, Miss Carolyn Wolfe, Miss Louise Wolfe, Miss Peggy Burgwin, Miss Katherine Gordon, Miss Mary Belle Dickson, Miss Marcelle Callery, Miss Florence Croft, Miss Dorothy Dravo, Miss Rachael Chantler, Miss Dorothy Rowe, Miss Louise Davis and Miss Natalie Donnelly. Mrs. Rowe expects to entertain again next Tuesday afternoon, when she will give a bridge party in honor of her visiting guests, Miss Louise Brewington of Hannibal, Mo., and Miss Helen Huston of Uniontown. Only the unmarried friends of the hostess have been asked to meet the two visitors.

Dr. Gordon to Lecture.

The Rev. Dr. John Gordon, dean of the Temple college, connected with Russel H. Conwell's church, the Baptist temple, in Philadelphia, will arrive in Pittsburgh this morning and this evening will lecture in the Fourth Avenue Baptist church. At noon today Dr. Gordon will give a talk on "Signboards" in the auditorium of the Heinz plant in Allegheny. His son, Colver Gordon, is connected with the advertising department of that company. Dr. Gordon comes to Pittsburgh to officiate at his son's wedding to Miss Nell Stevenson, which event is scheduled for tomorrow evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Stevenson, in Buena Vista street, Allegheny. The wedding will be a quiet affair at 6 o'clock, with only the relatives and most intimate friends in attendance. There will be no bridal party and for a time Mr. Gordon and his bride will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson.

Ayers-Stricker.

Miss Ethel May Ayers and Charles G. Stricker were married last evening in their new home, Lang avenue, Homewood. The Rev. Dr. John Widley, pastor of the Bethany Lutheran church, solemnized the marriage, and the bride was given away by her father, John Edward Ayers. Eight o'clock was the hour for the ceremony, during which the bride was attended by Miss Bertha Welsh as maid of honor. The bridal party also included John Baldey as best man, and the wedding march was played by Mrs. George Gilbert Sharpless, a sister. Miss Ayers wore a gown of pearl gray crepe de chine trimmed with duchesse lace. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Welsh, carrying a bouquet of white roses, wore a gown of blue crepe de chine and lace. Mr. and Mrs. Stricker will be at home to their friends after January 30, having dispensed with the customary wedding trip.

Wills-Jackson.

A pretty home wedding of last evening was that of Miss Irene Wills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wills of Wilkinsburg, and Charles Henry Jackson of this city. The bridal couple was unattended, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. H. S. Jackson of Warren, O., an uncle of the bridegroom. The bridal robe was a princesse model of white messaline satin and duchesse lace, and the bouquet was of white roses. At the conclusion of a wedding trip to Florida and Cuba, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will be at home in Center avenue, East End, having announced at-home days after March 1. Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bellard of Alliance, O., and Miss Florence and Miss Nellie Jackson of Warren, O.

Bride's Aunt to Officiate.

The Rev. Lee Anna Starr, an aunt of the bride, will officiate at the wedding of Miss Anna Brown Martin and Archie J. Holman, next Wednesday afternoon. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Martin, in Bellevue, at 6:30 o'clock, with Samuel S. Starkey and Paul H. Martin, a brother of the bride, the ushers, as the only attendants. After an eastern wedding trip Mr. Holman and his bride will live in Bellevue. Mr. Holman has been identified with the firm of Joseph Horne Company for 17 years. The Rev. Starr has just given up her charge, the Methodist Protestant church, in Paris, Ill., and will sail shortly to spend several months in travel through the Holy Land.

Wanzel-Young.

Miss Martha Wanzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Wanzel of Allegheny, and August Young were married at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. Thomas Lutheran church, Allegheny, the Rev. Ivan Dietrich officiating. The bride wore a white lace robe and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and white sweet peas. Her only jewel was Mr. Young's gift, a diamond brooch. A sister, Miss Clara Wanzel, was maid of honor, and wore a gown of white batiste and carried pink carnations. King Young, a brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Miss Hilda Dietrich played the wedding march from Lohengrin. Following the church ceremony a reception was held at the new home of the bridal couple, in Bellevue.

Discussed Miss Roosevelt's Gowns.

The novelty of a wedding in the White House captured the attention of the Thursday Afternoon club of Wilkinsburg yesterday, and a very enjoyable quarter of an hour was spent in discussing Miss Alice Roosevelt's trousseau. Current events is a cloak for all manner of topics, and under this caption the clubwomen discuss the theater, dress reform and municipal reform, education, science, art, a bridecelect's trousseau and even life and death. Yesterday there was a stir of interest when the leader for the afternoon introduced under current events the interesting wedding of the President's daughter and the congressman from Ohio to take place next month. Breezy were the comments made on the fashions in furbelows, with the telling of delightful little details in the long courtship of Miss Alice Roosevelt and questions regarding the etiquette of a White House wedding. Some present remembered the last White House wedding, when Miss Frances Folsom became Mrs. Grover Cleveland, and the list of these marriages which preceded that within the portals of the President's house was recalled.

Attention was also called in the discussion of current events to the loss which the Chicago university and the whole country has sustained in the death of President Harper recently.

Carnival time in Quebec was charmingly described by Miss Jean Hunter, who until a few years ago lived within a short distance of that quaint Canadian stronghold. She spoke of the carnivals as she had beheld them, particularly the ice carnivals, describing graphically the building of the picturesque houses upon the ice and the gala appearance of the town during the carnival season. Miss Hunter spoke on "The Manners, Customs and Amusements of the Canadians." The greatest of American orators, Daniel Webster, was sketched by Miss Bess Goldie. The club met yesterday in the home of Miss Elizabeth Stoner in Grafton street, Wilkinsburg. Miss Caroline Patterson being joint hostess. The president, Miss Mary Geidie, appointed Miss Ruth Baldwin to represent with Miss Genevieve Hasson the Thursday Afternoon club on the joint committee of women's clubs and charitable organizations for philanthropy in that borough.

Reception to Mrs. Rosenberg.

The auditorium of the Bellefield club house was crowded with women yesterday afternoon to see and hear the new national president of the Council of Jewish Women, Mrs. Hugo Rosenberg. The occasion was a reception which the Columbian Council of Jewish Women gave in her honor. The reception was conducted in the parlors of the club house which were handsomely decorated with palms and flowers, Mrs. Rosenberg carrying a large bouquet of American beauty roses, the gift of the local council. Receiving with her was Mrs. Enoch Rauh, the president of the Columbian Council, assisted by Mrs. Isaac Wildberg, Mrs. Nathaniel Speer, Mrs. Josiah Cohen, Mrs. M. Mona Lesser and Miss Minale Afelder.

After all had had an opportunity to meet Mrs. Rosenberg and congratulate her upon her election to the national presidency they gathered in the auditorium where a short program was presented. Mrs. Rosenberg making an address in which she spoke of the scope and the work of the National Council of Jewish Women, which she characterized as "a great sisterhood," asking that all the auxiliary councils throughout the country support it in the work which it is planning in various directions for the next three years. She urged for closer co-operation between the auxiliary councils, that the presidents of each visit their councils in other cities, telling of their work and looking for new ideas. She called attention to the emigration problem which confronts the nation today, and announced that a conference of the presidents of all the auxiliary councils will be held in New York at some time this year to study the work of the agent of the New York council who is stationed at Ellis Island and perhaps later employ agents in their own home cities to receive the emigrants sent to them and assist in distributing them throughout the country.

Mrs. M. Ruslander gave an interesting account of the triennial meeting of the national council in Chicago in December, and the program was closed with a few words by Mrs. Rauh. The music yesterday afternoon consisted of a piano solo by Mrs. Josiah Cohen, and a vocal number by Miss Rose Rothstein. After the program ices were served by the members of the board of directors, Mrs. Isaac Kaufman and Mrs. William Kahn pouring chocolate.

School City Is Defined.

Invitations have been issued by Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon for the school city committee of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Pittsburgh Playgrounds association, through Miss Beulah Kennard, its chairman, for an address to be given on Wednesday evening, January 31, in the Twentieth Century club house, when Dr. Wilson L. Gill will speak on the "School City," with an explanation of the method of organization. Following the address an informal reception will be held. Dr. Gill addressed the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women in October in Cambridge Springs, and the movement received the indorsement of that body.

The school city as defined by the National School City league is an organization of the pupils of a school into the city form of government. The pupils become the citizens. The three divisions of popular government, legislative executive and judicial, are established. The pupils elect from among their own number a mayor, judge, city clerk and city council. Each room in the school bears the same relation to the entire school that a ward does to the city, electing two members of the school city council and being apportioned its quota of police and health officers. Elections are held at least four times a year. Responsibility for the good order and discipline of the school rests upon the pupils themselves as citizens of the school city, and upon the officers in their various capacities. The teachers or principals give advice and guidance, and supervise this pupil self-government, and it thus becomes a method of moral and civic training.

The school city committee of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, is composed of Mrs. Elroy M. Avery, editor of the American Monthly Magazine; Mrs. Joseph B. Foraker, state vice regent of Ohio; Mrs. Mary Wood Swift, vice president general, California; Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. John A. Murphy, Ohio, chairman.

By-Laws Are Adopted.

At the meeting of the Pittsburgh Playgrounds association yesterday morning in the Twentieth Century club house the by-laws were finally adopted. They provide for life members in the association by the payment of $500. Women's clubs may become associated with the playgrounds association, in fact become associate members, by the payment of $1, it being expected, however, that they will not consider themselves deprived of further contributions to the work of the association. At present all other members are active and without the payment of the annual dues, as the work they give is considered equivalent to dues. The association yesterday afternoon indorsed the School City movement and, if it is possible, will introduce it to some extent in some of the playgrounds this summer. The movement has already been started in the Howard school in this city with some success. The association yesterday decided to have a dress committee, and it, together with all other committees, will be appointed later.

Woman's Club Will Give Musicale.

The Woman's club of Pittsburgh will give a musicale on Tuesday afternoon, February 6, which will be one of the semi-social affairs of the club year. Mrs. J. M. Keyser will give a talk on "The Effect of Music on the Physical, Mental and Moral Nature of Man," and will be followed by the members of the music committee, who will give a unique symposium on "classical versus ragtime" music, illustrated by selections of each. Tea will be served. The music committee is composed of Mrs. Minnie Ogrey Roberts, chairman; Mrs. J. P. Schaub, Mrs. Edwin Miller, Mrs. H. L. Stewart, Mrs. Mrs. J. M. Keyser.

Will Speak Before D. A. R.

Dr. Wilson L. Gill has been invited to speak before the Pittsburgh chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at its next meeting, Friday afternoon, February 2, in the Twentieth Century club. He will explain the purpose and methods of work of the School City, a movement for inculcating civic ideas with good government in the minds of the children, which the national society, Daughters of the American Revolution, has indorsed.

Many of the students of the Western University of Pennsylvania were present, all studies having been discontinued to allow them to attend.

The speakers were the Rev. J. W. G. Fast of the Oakland Methodist Episcopal church and the Rev. D. R. Breed, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church. They made forcible arguments for the advancement of the religious spirit in colleges.

WILL PROSECUTE CROOKED DEBTORS

Credit Association Has a $5,000 Fund to Use Against Fraudulent Failures.

IS ALSO MAKING ADJUSTMENT

Plans were formulated for the organization of a prosecuting bureau to bring criminal action against fradulent failures, at a regular monthly meeting and dinner of the Pittsburgh Association of Credit Men, held in the Union club last night. The prosecuting bureau will be in charge of an attorney and a fund of $5,000 has already been subscribed for the work, with the indications that the membership, which now numbers 250, will soon permit of increasing the fund to $10,000. Any member of the association is privileged to call upon the bureau to act in cases where there is suspicion that a debtor has fraudently assigned.

Another interesting feature of the meeting was the report of the adjustment bureau which was organized and placed in operation last September, and which since that time has adjusted estates in financial distress which had a total liability og $500,000. This bureau, which is headed by Attorney J. M. Reynolds, takes supervision of firms financially embarrassed, calls a meeting of creditors, and with their consent makes adjustment without the aid of the bankruptcy court and thereby claims to save much legal expense and at the same time work to the better interest of the creditors and the debtors. In cases where time will relieve financial embarrassment the adjustment committee takes personal charge of the business involved and in several cases have been able to return the business to the owners and have satisfied the creditors as well. Cases were reported last night where a compromise of 25 per cent was offered and 65 per cent secured by the bureau, and another where 75 was offered and 100 per cent procured.

Announcement was also made that the association had secured a lease on a suite of rooms in the Frick building which will be ready for occupancy on April 1. The association was instrumental in securing the passage of the 'bulk sale' law during the last general session of the legislature, and is composed of representatives of the largest commercial and financial institutions in the city. The officers are: President, W. A. Given; vice presidents, A. R. Darragh, Enoch Rauh and G. W. Ryan; treasurer, W. H. Coenrane; secretary, W. L. Danahey.

In the Oil Fields

In the lower southwest fields the developments on Goose creek, in Ritchie county, are attracting more attention than any other shallow sand territory. All of the late discoveries point to the development of a considerable area of that sand territory. The latest well to attract attention to that locality is the Wallace Oil Company's test on the J. F. Lowther farm, located on the headwaters of Goose creek, in Grant district. The well was drilled in yesterday and got its oil in the salt sand and is estimated to be good for 25 barrels a day. The well is almost a mile from any previous production. The Wallace Oil Company is composed of residents of Oakdale and have 600 acres under lease in that county. Near Middlebourne, Tyler county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its second test on the Emerson Stealey farm through the Big Injun and the hole filled up 600 feet with fluid the first 24 hours. It will make a fair pumper. In the same locality the Melrose Oil and Gas Company's test on the Pierpoint estate is producing 15 barrels a day since it was given a shot.

In the Salem district, Harrison county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its No. 6 on the Hugh Romine farm 12 feet into the strav and has found no oil or gas. In the same district the same company has drilled a second test on the J. P. Brand farm nine feet into the Gordon and has encountered a light pay. In the Wallace district the South Penn Company has drilled its No. 3 on the F. C. Dean farm 22 feet into the Gordon and has a show for a very light pumper. In the Smithfield district, Wetzel county, the South Penn Company has drilled its No. 7 on the D. J. Morgan farm into the strav and has developed no oil or gas. On Long Drain run, Church district, the Philadelphia Company's No. 1 on the William N. Teagarden farm is holding up at 56 barrels a day. It is now thought that the last gauge will be the limit of its daily production.

On the Ohio side, in the Woodsfield district, Monroe county, S. B. Longfellow & Co. have drilled in a very good Keener sand producer. It is located on the John Moore farm and is the initial well on this lease. It was drilled into the Keener pay Wednesday afternoon, and as soon as it was tapped the hole filled up with fluid and it made a flow. It is estimated that it will be good for 100 barrels a day. The location of this test is two and one-half miles southwest of the Unity (Ohio Company's) test on the Burley Wheeler farm. The location is so far in advance of production that it stands a chance to lead up to the development of a new pool. In the same district the Pure Oil Producing Company has now drilled its test on the Jacob Christman farm through the Berea grit and has a duster. In the Wolf Creek district, Washington county, the Pure Oil Producing Company has completed and shot its No. 24 on the E. H. Palmer farm and has an eight-barrel pumper from the shallow sand.

In the same district the Pure Oil Producing Company has completed No. 12 on the I. A. Ormiston farm and has a very light pumper. The same company has completed No. 11 on the R. J. Burkett farm and has a 20-barrel producer. The same company has completed a second test on the A. Drain farm and has a good gasser in the shallow sand. No. 14 on the E. C. Lynch farm is drilling and J. J. Lorenz & Co. are drilling No. 15 on the Lydia A. Palmer farm. East of Woodsfield, Monroe county, the Pure Oil Producing Company has completed its second test on the H. Schumacher farm and has a 50-barrel producer in the Berea grit.

In the Mt. Morris district, Greene county, the Union Utility Company has completed a second test on the Daniel Garrison farm and has a duster in all sands. In the Brownsdale district, Butler county, T. W. Phillips has completed No. 12 on the William Martin farm and has a 25-barrel pumper in the third sand. In the same district the Devonian Oil Company has completed its No. 6 on the B. Powell farm and has a light pumper in the same formation. Shafer & Co.'s No. 2 on the Campbell heirs' farm is good for five barrels a day.

No. 3 on the Charles Galbraith lease, near Smithfield, Jefferson county, Ohio, was drilled into the Berea sand Tuesday. They have a good showing of gas and oil, and will put the well to pumping immediately.

ORCHESTRA'S SECOND POPULAR CONCERT

People Do Not Flock to Carnegie Music Hall As to Old City Hall.

By CHARLES N. BOYD.

The second special popular concert of the Pittsburgh orchestra, given at Pittsburgh Carnegie music hall last evening, failed to attract as many persons as the first concert, given at the late lamented Old City Hall. The audience was, in general, different from that which attends the regular symphony concerts, in fact, a large part of the audience seemed unfamiliar with the arrangements which usually prevail at Carnegie music hall concerts in regard to taking seats during numbers, check rooms, and so on. Another difference was that the audience remained for the last number on the program and utilized it as an accompaniment for the adjustment of ladies' hats and wraps.

But the concert was appreciated, probably more than the average Friday evening or Saturday matinee concert, and the applause was prompt and hearty. There is no question as to the enjoyment these popular concerts afford, and the good they do for a part of the populace which does not seem interested in the regular concerts, but a downtown location seems essential if large audiences are to be attracted.

With the exception of three numbers from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" music, all the selections of last evening had figured on earlier programs of the season. The playing of the orchestra was generally good, but subject to the criticisms of the first popular concert, which also consisted of music which did not seem to have been specially rehearsed for the occasion. The Mendelssohn numbers were the scherzo, nocturne and wedding march; the latter always receives close attention, being regarded with pleasurable anticipation by part of the audience, and with a sort of recollection by the balance. For an encore Mr. Paur and his men gave the Mendelssohn "Spring Song."

Some fine climaxes were attained in the Liszt "Preludes," and it was also encored, this time with Moszkowski's "Serenade." It is a pity that some sort of analytical program book cannot be provided for these popular concerts, where it is especially needed, and where it would doubtless be heartily appreciated.

Miss Christine Miller, one of Pittsburgh's most popular singers, was the contralto soloist of the evening, and was given a hearty and well-deserved reception. With orchestral accompaniment she sang the "Amour, viens aidese" aria from Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah." and with piano a group of songs by Hahn, Henschel and Sieveking, to which was added as encore Nevin's "Oh, That We Two Were Maying."

The other soloist was Wenzel Jiskra, principal double bass player of the orchestra. Last year Mr. Jiskra proved that he could make a solo on this instrument interesting, and last evening's performance only emphasized his command of the large viol. It is a curious fact that the solos for the bass, as Mr. Jiskra has made them known, seem to be a mixture of amorous melodies and technical display which reminds one strongly of the violin solos of the DeBeriot and Sivori type. The performer made the most of his selections, and was promptly encored.

It is to be hoped that opportunity will be found for at least one or two more popular concerts of this type before the end of the orchestra's season. This evening and tomorrow afternoon the regular concerts will be given, with two soloists, Bessie Abbott, soprano, and Leo Altman, violinist.

COLER OPPOSED TO THE PENNSYLVANIA

Declares Railroad Shall Not Get Needed Franchise Without Making Certain Conditions.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—Bird S. Coler, president of the borough of Brooklyn, issued a statement today in which he insisted that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company must agree that there shall be no differential freight rates against the city of New York before it can have the franchise it desires for a railroad to connect with the Long Island and New York, New Haven & Hartford railroads. Mr. Coler criticised the action of Comptroller Hermann A. Metz, and Alexander E. Orr, president of the rapid transit commission, both of whom have stated that the proposed stipulation against a differential would be in violation of the constitution of the United States.

Mr. Coler alluded to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company as "an angel of beneficence, a regular lady bountiful corporation" and said "the condition of the state government of Pennsylvania, and the city government of Philadelphia has not made me eager to have New York state and city dominated by this railroad."

Mr. Coler declared that the Pennsylvania had insolently changed the entire framework of New York's city government by inducing the passing of a legislative act which took away the right to grant franchises from the board of aldermen and gave it to the board of estimate.

READY TO PAY DEPOSITORS.

Bank Creditors Get 42 Per Cent Unless Appeal is Taken.

City Treasurer John F. Steel, receiver for the defunct State bank which failed in February, 1904, received a certified copy of the decision of the Dauphin county court yesterday, confirming the report of the receiver. He announced that $318,000 was on deposit at the time of the bank's suspension, and that sufficient funds were in hand to pay 42 per cent to depositors.

This will be paid out at the expiration of 30 days, which must be allowed for an appeal. If such action is taken the payment of the funds in hand would be prevented until the supreme court acts on the matter.

NORMAN H. GEYSER WANTS NEW TRIAL

Attorneys File an Application in Which They Say the Court Erred and Attack Verdict.

GAMBLING DEBTS REJECTED

Application for a new trial for Norman H. Geyser, convicted of second degree murder for the killing of Mrs. Martha S. Kirkpatrick, was made to Judge Shafer yesterday by Attorneys John C. Baymaker and John Marron. The reasons given are that the court erred in the admission of evidence on the part of the commonwealth in overruling the objection of the defendant to evidence on the part of the commonwealth, in overruling the objections of the defendant to certain cross-examination on the part of the commonwealth, in its charge to the jury, and in its answer and qualifications of defendant's points, and that the verdict was against the law and the evidence.

"Both are gambling transactions," says Judge Miller of orphans' court, in refusing claims against the estate of the late George S. Fleming made by W. H. Stanbird for $525 and James Reagen for $750. Both, the court finds, are on race track transactions. In his opinion, Judge Miller continues: "In the distribution of a decedent's estate, apparently insolvent, transactions of this kind cannot take rank with bona fide claims based on transactions that are not colorable. We have nothing to do with what decedent himself might have done with these claims, nor do we express any opinion on the propriety of a man who loses money on gambling transactions and afterwards seeks to avoid the responsibility on account thereof. We have no such case before us."

Claims aggregating $100,242 98 were presented. By the decree of distribution there is shown to be $46,586 42 in the accountant's hands, and distribution on the claims is made pro rata. Under the decree of distribution, claimants share in proportion as follows, the principal claims and amounts alloted being given here: Duquesne sub-district school board, of which Fleming was treasurer, a claim of $11,492 19, allotted $5,312 77; Lincoln National Bank, claim of $16,885 64, allotted $7,849 29; John P. Steel, receiver of the State bank of Pittsburgh, claim $3,004 90, allotted $1,396 63.

Asks for an Accounting.

A bill in equity was filed by H. J. Hendricks for himself and others, asking for a receiver for the Braun Manufacturing Company. The defendants are the company, President Henry Braun, Secretary C. W. Overton, Directors D. W. McNaugher and W. C. Rae, and Sheriff J. W. Dickson. Hendricks alleges that Braun, Overton, McNaugher and Rae had a judgment bond for $10,000 taken by themselves to secure certain note indorsements, and the property was taken by the sheriff on an execution. It is asserted that the judgment was in excess of the real obligations, that the company was solvent, and that the directors fraudulently caused the bond to be given to themselves. It is also alleged that the defendants acted for their own interests and not those of the company, and were guilty of fraud and gross neglect.

The commissioner in the divorce case of Harry Light against Fannie Light filed his report. Light is a cigar manufacturer, who formerly lived on Roberts street, on Fulton street and in Johnstown, and who now again lives in Pittsburgh. It was testified that Mrs. Light beat him and tore his clothes off, and once chased him through the streets of Johnstown with a poker. The master says Mrs. Light is an anarchist and attended anarchistic meetings.

Judge J. A. Evans dismissed the exceptions of the defendants and the plaintiff in the suit of Mary McClure against Harry Davis and the Samuel W. Black Co., except that exception of Davis' to the placing of all the costs upon him. The court divides the costs equally among the parties to the action, which was over a realty agreement.

In the case of Gibson Lightcap, executor of William Walker, for use, against Frank F. Nicola, a suit to recover the purchase price of 40 acres of land on an agreement of sale between the plaintiff and defendant, Judge J. A. Evans orders judgment entered for the defendant notwithstanding the verdict.

Charles A. Woods, to whom E. D. Gartner & Co. made an assignment a few days ago for the benefit of the firm's creditors, presented his resignation in court yesterday. It was accepted and W. G. Parks named as assignee in his stead. Mr. Woods said stress of other business was the cause of his resignation.

Say the Money Was Embezzled.

The First National bank of Braddock sued the Duquesne National bank of Pittsburgh to recover $700 deposited in the latter by S. Bernolak, who is alleged to have embezzled $5,000 while employed as foreign exchange clerk in the Braddock bank. It is alleged the $700 was part of the money alleged to have been taken.

William F. Dilworth, deceased, devises realty worth $22,000 and personalty worth $53,000 to his brother, John C. Dilworth. William Keck leaves a $1,175 estate to his sister, Lizzie. Eva Bohn leaves a $3,200 estate to her seven children. Adam Kessler a $13,800 estate to his widow.

Harry Davis has answered the suit of the city of Pittsburgh against him and R. W. Arnold to compel the removal of a stairway and railing in Fifth avenue. Davis denies that they are a nuisance, and says if they are ordered to be removed it should be without expense to him, as they were there when he bought the building from Arnold.

Anthony Darvin was awarded $200 damages from Charles Helder and the latter is restrained from operating his stone quarry in North Braddock so that stones are thrown on Darvin's property.

The grand jury returned true bills in seven misdemeanor cases based on the pure food laws. The defendants are J. J. Anthony, H. Browasky, M. Browasky, Charles K. Boyce, Elole Elzmic (called John Elzmic), Fred Russell and John Yearwood. Other true bills were: Robbery, Frank La Flam, Annie La Flam; assault and battery, Martin Bolton, John Bechtold, Frank La Flam, Antonia Zayenska, Harry Wolkowsky; aggravated assault and battery, James Conley, Cora Conley; larceny, J. R. Carpenter, S. Fishman, John Krokovfe, Mike Mullen, W. A. Wasko; embezzlement, A. W. Jones; malicious mischief, C. M. Hopkins; forcible entry and detainer, C. M. Hopkins et al; Joseph O. Snyder; misdemeanor, Ignatz Ceylizki, B. Carroll, Duncan K. Borland.

A jury is considering its verdict in the case of William Moran, Harry Reese and W. J. Kelley, charged with assaulting William Curran of 601 Wylie avenue on Christmas morning and robbing him of $6, a gold watch and chain and a pair of spectacles.

These sentences were imposed in criminal court: Joseph Mulligan, larceny, eight months; Roney Mowish, felonious assault, six months; Horace Armstead, entering a building and larceny, two years; Stancy Cleticzenski, assault; three months; John Mahoney and Dennis Malarkey, larceny, five months; Joseph Kapnorints, larceny, 10 days; Thomas Brookfield, entering a building, sent to the Huntingdon reformatory, as were Thomas Scott and Casper Irwin for larceny.

Charles Bowers, alias John Miller, pleaded guilty to fraudulently making a written instrument by which he might secure $35.

WOULD CHANGE WARD MAP.

Committee of 70 Proposes to Remedy Unequal Representation in City Councils.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 25.—Under the terms of an act drafted at the request of the committee of 70, a complete redistricting of this city is proposed so that the present inequality of ward representations in city councils resulting from the shifting of the population may be remedied. In its present form the bill would completely change the ward map of the city six months after it became law, and every 10 years thereafter. And at the outset it would obliterate the lines which have always stood as the boundaries of a particular leader's stamping ground.

But there would always be just 25 wards, just 75 common councilmen, 25 select councilmen, 25 constables and 200 sectional school directors. The bill will be presented at the regular session of the legislature.

PERSONS possessing a few thousand dollars who would not be averse to taking on an investment which would yield them larger returns than any mortgage, and is as safe as the first mortgage bonds of any industrial or railroad corporation, would do well to write to the advertiser for facts relative to a proposition conceived to effect expansion of one of the largest and fastest-growing wholesale houses in the Pittsburgh district. This house, established ten years, has been characterized by a growth of business and percentage of earnings not thought possible at the time of its founding.

Although the building now occupied is an immense structure, it has become much too small for the increasing business, and the company will soon move into a larger and very handsome brick-and-stone edifice of eight stories, which it recently purchased. This building fronts on two streets, in the part of Pittsburgh where extraordinary enhancements of real estate have exceeded all precedent and given the house an exceptional asset outside of its heavy stock of merchandise and other mercantile possessions.

As the proposition is one such as is rarely presented except by personal solicitation of one friend by another, and cannot remain open long, you are urged to communicate with the writer at once, so that you may learn the exact details of the opportunity and be placed in position to make complete investigation, or subject it to whatever scrutiny you may deem to be judicious.

Bank references, the identity of the house, and any further information may be secured on application to Lock box 1144, Pittsburgh, Pa.

WALL STREET TRADERS TESTING THE MARKET

Rapid Changes from Weakness to Strength, the Market Closing Firm—Local Stocks Fairly Active and Steady.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday was less active, the sales footing up 1,900,000 shares, as compared with an average of 2,000,000 shares for the two days previous. There were rapid changes in the tone of the market, which occurred in the absence of influential news and seemed to be the result of a shifting of speculative interests. The close was fairly steady to firm.

Wall street traders are now apparently engaged in testing the market. Heretofore the cliques were arrayed solidly on the bull side of the market, and they were successful in sustaining prices and forcing the upward movement in the face of numerous incidents that would naturally suggest caution. For the past three weeks there has been a big broad market, and as money rates became easier the public interest in the market increased. The situation has been favorable to profit-taking and there is little doubt that the pools have been able to distribute their holdings. The technical position of the market is, therefore, not so strong. The past two days the large professionals have apparently been engaged in determining just how strong the market is.

It was reported yesterday that the head of the chief western clique which has been so prominent in the bull movement of the past two months had announced to his friends that the market was due for a good reaction, and it was thought the heavy selling of the pool stocks of late represented the liquidation of this and other cliques, and possibly the putting out of a line of short stock. It was noticeable the past two days that the high-priced railroad stocks, which were the leaders of the upward movement, suffered the largest decline on the reaction. The irregularity and weakness of the market at the opening was attributed to profit-taking and short sales by the large interests which have been arrayed on the other side. For a time the market looked decidedly weak, but points of strength among low-priced and heretofore inactive stocks prevented the market from assuming a tone of general weakness. On the decline the speculation became rather dull, and when the shorts attempted to cover they found the public following on the buying side. The result was a very sharp recovery. Prices did not close at the highest, but the day ended more in favor of the bulls than the bears.

Union Pacific was again the leader in point of activity. It opened at 157¼, rose to 158⅝, broke to 155⅝ and closed at 157⅛, a net gain of ⅛ per cent. Southern Pacific closed unchanged, St. Paul 1¼ higher and Atchison ¼ higher. Reading broke from 158½ to 152¼, being influenced, possibly, by a report that one of the original bulls on the stock had liquidated and cleaned up $7,000,000. The stock closed 1⅞ per cent lower than on Wednesday. Pennsylvania closed a shade higher. Norfolk & Western was the strongest element in this group, and after selling at 83, rallied to 92, closing at 91⅝. The Wabash issues and Denver common were again active, but closed with only slight net changes. New York Central, Northern Pacific, Louisville & Nashville and Southern Railway all closed higher.

The industrial list suffered with the rest of the market in the early decline, but also shared in the subsequent recovery. United States Steel common sold off to 43⅜, but rallied to 44⅛ at the close. The preferred declined to 111⅛ and closed at 111⅝. Tennessee Coal and Iron covered the widest range of fluctuations in this group, opening lower at 150, breaking to 147½ and then jumping to 158⅜, closing near the top. Colorado Fuel and Iron and the railroad equipment stocks all closed higher. Anaconda Copper moved within a 10-point range and closed 1 per cent lower for the day. Amalgamated Copper was quoted ex-dividend, and closed at the equivalent of 1⅞ advance.

There was no change in the money market, call loans ranging between 4 and 4½ per cent.

On the Pittsburgh stock exchange 17,600 shares of Ohio Tonopah changed hands at prices ranging from 35 to 39 cents a share. More than 2,000 shares Tonopah Extension sold at $7.35 to $7.45, the close being firm. Sales of Lustre footed up 680 shares at 30 to 32, the close showing a net advance of $2.25 a share. Sales of United Copper were 100 shares at 64¼, a decline of ⅞. In the curb market there was a fair degree of activity in mining shares, the principal feature being the decline in Golden Anchor to $1.20 and the recovery to $1.23 bid at the close.

Outside of the transactions in mining stocks only about 6,000 shares changed hands, but the tone of the market was steady to firm. Crucible Steel common sold at 16⅞ to 17⅛, closing at 17. The preferred was less active than of late and closed unchanged at 80. Manufacturers Light and Heat was moderately active and heavy, declining to 33 and closing at 33¾. The other natural gas stocks were neglected. Pittsburgh Coal common sold at 16 to 17, closing at a decline of 1 per cent. The preferred closed ½ lower at 88½. River Coal common sold unchanged at 8. There was nothing doing in the preferred. Union Switch and Signal sold at 85 ex-rights, but the other Westinghouse stocks were neglected. Electric closed offered at 85. Pittsburgh Brewing issues were firm and fractionally higher. In the banking group Second National sold at 265, an advance of 10 points, and Commonwealth Trust was 3 per cent higher at 135. A small lot of Fort Pitt National bank was bought in "under the rule" at 216, a decline of 8 points from the last previous sale.

DALLMEYER FIRMS PREPARE TO MOVE

Four Concerns Have Leased Rooms in People's and Arrott Buildings.

GOOD SALES IN SEWICKLEY

Tenants in the Dallmeyer block in Fourth avenue are fast getting new quarters to which they can move April 1, when the building is to be torn down to make room for the Commonwealth office building. Four firms yesterday announced their removal. The Smith-Premier Typewriter Company, which lately moved to the Dallmeyer building from one of the Thaw buildings in Wood street, has leased through the Real Estate Trust Company the entire first floor of the Ferguson building for five years. The rooms face in Third avenue, but are reached also by the Fourth avenue entrance. Manager R. M. Beck announced yesterday that as soon as the brokerage firm which now occupies the space is out it will be put in good shape for a first-class store.

Liggett, Lennox & Watkins, who are on the first floor of the Dallmeyer block, have leased through the Safe Deposit and Trust Company spacious quarters on the eight floor of the Peoples Savings Bank building across the street. The firm has recently increased its working force considerably and can easily use the larger quarters it will secure. Through the same agency Architect C. J. Rieger has secured rooms on the Thirteenth floor of the Peoples building in place of his quarters in the Dallmeyer block. The real estate firm of W. J. Toner & Co. will move from the first floor of the Dallmeyer block to the sixth floor of the Arrott building, where they will have about 600 square feet of space. Warren & Gray have not yet announced their new location, but will probably remain in ground floor rooms. The International Savings and Trust Company, the remaining first floor tenant of the Dallmeyer block, has not secured quarters.

Four Deals in Sewickley.

Four sales of residence properties in Sewickley have just been announced. The Samuel W. Black Company made one deal, selling for D. C. Herost to a prominent Pittsburgh business man a 14-room brick house and a stable on the west side of Broad street for $25,000. The property measures 100x309 feet and is between the holdings of Mrs. Hutchinson and William Mussey. The house is one of the best in Sewickley and was bought for a home.

Another sale which leaked out is of the residence of Marion Applegate on the south side of Beaver road at Glen Osborne. The lot is 80x120 feet and the house is a fine buff brick residence of 10 rooms. It is directly opposite the home of John Lambie, and was bought by a business man for a home.

The Young Men's Christian association of Sewickley sold to Dr. J. R. Hood 40x203 feet on the north side of Beaver street, near Grimes street, Sewickley, for $3,600, as the site for a $10,000 residence.

Thomas Woods bought 60x120 feet at the corner of Hill and Broad streets in the Watson plan at Sewickley for $3,200. This site will also be improved with a house to cost not less than $12,000.

East End Landmark Doomed.

Old "Nine Row," at the southwest corner of Penn avenue and Whitfield street, for years a landmark and an eyesore to East Liberty, is to be torn down. The owner of the property, Harry A. Laughlin, has decided to improve the site, which faces 150 feet in Penn avenue and runs back 200 feet to Mignonette street. Nine old one-story frame buildings, used as stores and shops, occupy the frontage. They have long been a menace to the district, both on account of their dilapidated appearance and the danger from fire. The row, which was formerly owned by Capt. Seeley, will be replaced in the spring with a row of handsome brick store buildings. There is little doubt that these can be rented to good advantage, for every one of the one-story brick stores lately built in Penn avenue, on the Ferguson lot west of Highland avenue have been leased at good paying figures, and many more applications are on file for similar quarters.

John N. Straub has transferred to Edward H. Straub the four-story store and flat building at the northwest corner of Frankstown and Park avenues, Twenty-first ward, for $60,000. The lot is 40x120 feet and the building is one of the best in that locality.

Through the Aronson Realty Company, J. F. Keenan has sold to S. Rosenthal a three-story brick building and a small warehouse on 20x100 feet at Center avenue and Arthur street for $14,000.

David P. Reighard has purchased from Wilbur Shenk 80x150 feet on the south side of Ellsworth avenue, near College avenue, Twentieth ward, for $10,000.

Allegheny Brokers Wait on Legislature.

Allegheny brokers are awaiting patiently for some cheering news from Harrisburg on the Greater Pittsburgh bills. Nothing but the lack of certainty regarding the annexation of Allegheny at an early date is keeping back the buying movement in that city, which, as shown by the deals pending and the inquiries received by brokers on both sides of the river, would be of good proportions. At least three deals of business property in Federal street have been advanced to the point of signing several times, but the prospective buyers, after agreeing on the price and terms, have in every case shied off at the closing until they were assured that Greater Pittsburgh would be a reality. Two good sales have been made in Stockton avenue in spite of the uncertainty. Many of the most promising customers now being looked after by brokers are firms or individuals in Pittsburgh who are looking to Allegheny for business sites or for good realty investments. In their opinion the building of the new Union station at Federal street and Stockton avenue is bound to give that section a great impetus, but still they hesitate to deal until they know that the price enhancement that will surely follow annexation will not be long delayed. One deal of over $200,000 for a big plot near the river is held up for much the same reason. Those who spent weeks last year in securing options on properties in the First and Fourth wards in the certain hope that the Greater Pittsburgh agitation would be brought to a head quickly, are now slow to try the same tactics again, for they were "out" in both time and money before. As a result the Allegheny market is now stagnant instead of manifesting the activity which would logically follow the greater city project or the certain entrance of the Wabash into Allegheny.

More Than 300 Per Cent Gain.

An evidence of how fast real estate values have advanced in McKeesport is shown by a sale of $2,000 which is practically consummated by a Pittsburgh trust company. Four years ago the company, which had charge of a property in Fifth avenue two squares from the Baltimore & Ohio station, declined to make the deal for the heirs on the basis of $12,000. Now the property is bringing $40,000, or more than three times as much as in 1902.

Some nice bouses are being offered for leases lately sighted. One of these is for the building at 416-418 Sixth avenue, which were leased by the Real Estate Trust Company a short time ago to Charles L. DeLong for $6,250 a year, which was considered a high rental. Since Mr. DeLong pas got his lease the company has had three offers of $1,600 a year more for the property, which is directly opposite the Nixon theater and will be occupied by a cafe and restaurant.

It develops that the property which John W. Sherrer sold for J. P. Cowan is the lot at 6103-6105 Broad street, adjoining Mr. Cowan's lot at the corner of Broad street and Sheridan avenue, instead of the latter, as reported yesterday. The property sold is 38x90 feet and was bought a few months ago by Mr. Cowan for about $16,000. An old frame house is the only improvement.

PRODUCTION OF COKE FALLS OFF VERY SLIGHTLY

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., Jan. 25.—The coke output in both the Connellsville and Mississippi fields showed a slight falling off last week. Unusual weather conditions permitted the furnaces to get all the stock they can handle. The result of this will be to allow a little more coke to go on the open market. Production will be kept as close as possible to the needs of the trade. A summary of the Connellsville region for the week ended Saturday, January 20, shows a total of 23,313 ovens, of which only 1,122 are idle, a gain of 22 ovens for the active list.

The week's production amounted to 282,980 tons, being 1,479 less than for the previous week. The shipments aggregated 12,217 cars, as follows: Pittsburgh district, 1,418 cars; west of Pittsburgh, 6,322 cars; eastern district, 1,277 cars. The week's shipments amounted to 285,415 tons, 4,631 less than for the week previous.

The Masontown shipments aggregated 2,593 cars, distributed as follows: Pittsburgh district, 245 cars; west of Pittsburgh, 2,110 cars; Eastern district, 148 cars. The Masontown shipments, estimated at 70,680 tons, show a decrease of 616 tons.

LARGE RECEIPTS IN THE PRODUCE MARKET

Potatoes, Onions, Celery and Cabbages Are Plentiful—Egg Market Still Drags.

Heavy receipts and slow sales characterized the produce markets yesterday. The biggest over supply was in the potato market, there being 113 cars of potatoes on track at the yards. The hopes of many dealers of a dollar market before February are doomed, for the receipts, especially from Michigan, are heavier than a few weeks ago, and the quality is also better. Onions and cabbage were also in large supply at the yards yesterday, there being 24 cars of the former and 9 of the latter. Nineteen cars of celery arrived, enough to keep the market in a slightly nervous state, and 31 cars of apples were on track. Most of the celery comes from California and is of very good quality. Thirty cars of oranges arrived, another heavy receipt, but the receipts of bananas were limited to two cars. Trade on the street was reported slow and little improvement was noted in retail conditions over the past few days, which have shown a dull.

The egg market continues to "drag." Prices are a little firmer than at the first of the week, but stock is not moving as dealers would like to see it at this season. Cheese remains firm at prevailing quotations.

A dull market prevailed in hay and grain circles, especially the former. Timothy hay of good quality is arriving in large quantities from Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, and prices show no disposition to advance. Sales are just fair and for clover hay there is apparently little call.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

A Butte (Mont.) dispatch says: Ralph Bagaley of Pittsburgh, former manager of the Pittsburgh & Montana Copper Company is in Butte and states that the Mellons of Pittsburgh have not bought the controlling interest in the company, as reported. Judge Reed and Mr. Bagaley own two-thirds of the stock and have not sold a share.

John D. Ryan, managing director of the Amalgamated Copper Company of Butte, has closed a deal with Waker Brothers of this city, whereby he acquired an option on the Alice mines of Butte for a consideration fixed at a million. The inference here is that Mr. Ryan is acting for the Amalgamated Copper.

A dispatch from the general manager to the Pittsburgh office of the Golden Anchor stated that he was drifting east and west on the south vein and that the formation was improving in appearance. Further development is expected to disclose a good solid ore body.

A Houghton dispatch says: A rich strike has been made in the crosscut at the old Franklin property.

The Butte Copper Exploration Company has just been formed, with a capital of 100,000 shares, to develop a series of claims in Butte adjoining certain claims of the Boston & Montana Company that the Amalgamated people are just starting to develop. There is a shaft down now nearly 600 feet and has shown a vein 80 feet wide. This shaft will be developed at once to the 1,600-foot level, and then a crosscut driven north and south to open up and prove the property. The company has $150,000 cash in its treasury. A majority of these shares have been purchased by Hayden, Stone & Co., Paine, Webber & Co., Richardson, Hill & Co. and N. F. Leopold of Chicago, all of whom will have representation on the board of directors.

BOSTON, Jan. 25.—The market today was very erratic, selling off sharply soon after the opening, but there were not many stocks offered at the low prices. Within the last hour a sharp rally appeared in Amalgamated, which closed 2 points up from the low, with considerable demand in evidence. There was good demand for Franklin on reports of a rich strike in the crosscut at the bottom of the old mine. We look for higher prices in the better class of the coppers for the balance of the week.

IRREGULARITY MARKS TRADING IN GRAIN

Conflicting Foreign Reports Give Both Bears and Bulls Chance in the Wheat Pit.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—Advices from Argentina and Russia were the chief factors influencing the price of wheat today. Argentina reported poor returns from threshings, and Russia declared that conditions in that country are improving and that a large acreage is anticipated for spring wheat. The advices from Argentina were received last and caused a firm close in the market. On the final quotations, May was up ¼c. Corn was off ¼c. Oats were down ¼c, and provisions were a shade to 7½c higher.

During the first half of the session the wheat market was extremely weak, except for a slight firmness at the immediate opening. Because of a fair demand by shorts, the initial quotations on May were up a shade to 1@2c, at 85½c to 85¾c. Then a private dispatch from Argentina was made public, which claimed that the total yield of wheat would show a gain of 5 to 10 per cent compared with last year's crop. Following this came the Russian prediction of increased acreage for spring wheat. These advices encouraged the bears, and for a time the selling was unusually heavy. Prices broke sharply, May declining to 84½c before the middle of the day was reached.

At this time shorts commenced covering freely, and the market quickly responded, most of the loss being regained before the end of the session. A late cablegram from Argentina, declaring that threshing results are disappointing, and giving the surplus for export as 80,000,000 bushels, against 112,000,000 bushls last year, caused a much steadier feeling. The close was firm, with May at 85¾@85¾c. Primary receipts were 535,000 bushels, against 395,000 bushels one year ago. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 137,000 bushels. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 347 cars, against 515 cars lyast week and 243 cars one year ago.

Persistent selling by commission houses and cash interests caused moderate weakness in the corn market. Lower cables, the weakness in wheat and increased country acceptances all tended to lower prices. The close was easy. May opened a shade lower to a shade higher, at 44⅞c to 45c, sold off to 44½c, and closed at 44¾@44¾c. Local receipts were 253 cars, with 2 of contract grade.

Heavy liquidation by longs caused a decided weakness in oats during the first half of the session. A large part of the loss was regained on covering by shorts, who were influenced by reports of large sales for exports. The volume of trading was large. The market closed steady. May opened unchanged at 31⅝c, broke to 31¼c, and closed at 31⅜c. Local receipts were 94 cars.

Provisions were weak early

RAILROAD MEN ARE NOT WORRIED

C. W. CLARKE PAYS A VISIT

"Let congress enact legislation for the establishment of a commission to regulate rates," said Vice President G. J. Grammer of the New York Central lines yesterday, just before he left Pittsburgh for Chicago. "The railroad officers are not frightened in the least. The fellow that will be the first to howl after such a commission is established will be one who wants the thing done. When rates are fixed by politicians they will be all right, of course. Boss Cox of Cincinnati, Murphy of Tammany and some ring leader of New Orleans, these three men or any men they might recommend from their proteges would make a fine part of a rate commission, wouldn't they? I believe some legislation will result from the strong agitation, but I know the railroad officers are not worrying about the subject."

Capt. Grammer was here on his first visit since his jurisdiction has been extended over the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad, in addition to the other roads of the New York Central lines west of Buffalo. He spent the morning in conference with General Freight Agent Terry and General Passenger Agent Robison of the Lake Erie and General Agent Hurd of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, and left for Chicago at 3:30 o'clock. General Passenger Agent Robison left at the same time for Buffalo.

"Charley" Clark Visits City.

Charles W. Clarke, general freight agent of the Erie railroad, was here from Chicago looking into business of the Pittsburgh office. Mr. Clarke was general agent of the Erie in this district for several years. He returned to Chicago last night.

"Every man who has ever had a touch with Pittsburgh for any length of time likes to get back," said Mr. Clarke. "I am happy to be here and should like to stay longer. Business is excellent."

Circulars on P. & L. E. Officers.

Official circulars issued by Col. Schoonmaker, vice president of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, and approved by President Newman yesterday, announced the appointment of J. R. Yohe as general manager and the abolishment of the office of general superintendent. This appointment was exclusively announced in The Gazette last Friday. The appointment, according to the circular, became effective January 1. Another circular announced the appointment of J. E. Deems as general superintendent of motive power, rolling stock and machinery of the road. Mr. Deems now holds this position for the entire New York Central lines system, his headquarters being in New York. The appointment was effective January 23.

Consider Iron and Steel Rates.

A special committee of the Central Freight association met in Pittsburgh yesterday to consider rates on manufactured iron and steel products from the Ironton and Ashland districts to Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston and New York state territory. General Freight Agent Orr of the Northwest system of the Pennsylvania lines west was chairman of the meeting, among others in attendance being General Freight Agent J. R. Ruffin of the Norfolk & Western of Roanoke, Va.; Division Freight Agent A. J. Anderson of the Baltimore & Ohio of Columbus, General Freight Agent E. D. Hotchkiss of the Chesapeake & Ohio of Richmond, Va.; General Freight Agent Hudson Fitch of the Ohio Central lines of Columbus, and Assistant General Freight Agent Archibald Fries of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern of Cincinnati.

Commission Men Sue P. R. R.

Suit was entered Wednesday against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company by J. H. Reynier and C. W. Wiley of the wholesale produce firm of Reynier & Wiley, for $5,000 damage to perishable freight upon which it is claimed exorbitant charges were asked for storage. The firm was asked to pay $418 storage, but refused, after securing legal advice, and the freight was damaged in storage. Former Judge Edwin H. Stowe, one of the counsel for the commission men, says the case will be continued to the highest tribunals, probably reaching the interstate commerce commission. A test case is to be made and a number of other suits may result.

Money Ready for Clairton Line.

The United States Steel Corporation's executive committee has authorized an appropriation for the construction of the line to connect the St. Clair Terminal railroad of the Clairton Steel Company with the West Side Belt road of the Wabash at Clairton. The line will be mostly an elevated structure, something less than a mile in length. It is probable the contract will be awarded soon and that construction will begin early in the spring.

Railroad Notes.

The Railway club of Pittsburgh will meet at the Monongahela house this evening.

The Baltimore & Ohio storekeepers closed their two-day convention at the Henry last evening.

R. E. Bowers, district storekeeper of the Wabash at Norwalk, O., was here conferring with Purchasing Agent J. F. Stark.

O. C. Castle, chief clerk to Superintendent Dyer, of the Baltimore & Ohio, was called to Kane by the serious illness of his mother.

F. O. Wood, correspondence clerk in the office of Vice President Worthington of the Wabash, is in Chicago looking after company business.

L. E. Snively, commercial freight agent of the Lackawanna at Philadelphia, is spending a couple of days looking after business in Pittsburgh.

C. E. McKim, former superintendent of telegraph of the Pennsylvania lines west, has been appointed general inspector of transportation of the Louisville & Nashville.

Col. Walter G. Coleman, general traveling passenger agent of the Seaboard Air Line railway, and Traveling Passenger Agent R. H. Stansell, were here from Washington.

Vice President Schoonmaker of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie and Major Sibert of the United States engineers corps, looked into matters of the harbor line at Brownsville.

J. T. Keith, superintendent of the Lehigh Valley at Buffalo, and formerly trainmaster of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, has been appointed traffic manager of the G. B. Markle Company, a coal firm at Geddo, Pa.

E. J. West has been appointed clerk in the office of Superintendent Dyer of the Baltimore & Ohio to succeed D. A. Lawson, who resigned to go to Chicago. Mr. West has been a clerk in the office of Freight Agent R. E. Pyle.

General Passenger Agent Lapey of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh advises that passenger service will be inaugurated across Lake Ontario to the Grand Trunk in connection with the car ferry line soon to be established.

ATTACKED THE HEART

NEURALGIA IN THIS FORM IS OFTEN FATAL.

A Complicated Case Cured to Stay Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Neuralgia in any form is painful, but when it attacks the heart it is frequently fatal. Complicated with indigestion of a form that affected the vital organ it threatened serious consequences in a case just reported. The case is that of Mr. F. L. Graves of Pleasanthill, La., who tells of his trouble and cure as follows:

"I traveled considerably, was exposed to all kinds of weather and was irregular in my sleeping and eating. I suppose this was the cause of my sickness, at any rate, in May, 1905, I had got so bad that I was compelled to quit work and take to my bed. I had a good doctor and took his medicines faithfully but grew worse. I gave up hope of getting better and my neighbors thought I was surely going to die.

"I had smothering spells that it is awful to recall. My heart fluttered and then seemed to cease beating. I could not lie on my left side at all. My hands and feet swelled and so did my face.

"After reading about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in a newspaper I decided to try them and they suited my case exactly. Before long I could see an improvement and after taking a few boxes I was entirely cured. I am glad to make this statement and wish it could cause every sufferer to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do not simply deaden pain; they cure the trouble which causes the pain. They are guaranteed to contain no narcotic, stimulant or opiate. Those who take them run no danger of forming any drug habit. The pills are a blood and nerve tonic and they cured Mr. Graves because they fed the nerves through the blood. They act directly on the blood and it is only through the blood that any medicine can reach the nerves. In this way they have cured the most severe nervous disorders such as partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance and all sorts of nervous weakness. They are a specific for diseases of the blood such as anaemia, rheumatism, scrofula, erysipelas, etc. They are useful in a special way to women and growing girls. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Oettings Hats

OETTING'S PARAGON BRAND

$2.25

OETTING'S ACME BRAND

$1.75

Not so here.

It is extremely gratifying to me to be able to announce an exhibition of 100 dozen advance spring style derbies and a pleasure to say with perfect equanimity, prices as usual, $2.25 for the Paragon and $1.75 for the Acme brand.

Some stores have hats marked a few cents lower than these prices, but then ours are all spick and span new spring styles.

Natty, small shapes for the boys who are going to buy their very first derby.

Swell styles for the young fellows who like to dress up to the very minute.
